3 1761 03571 5572

PR
1526
G8A3
1849

Natale Sancti Gregorii Papae.

AELFRIC'S

ANGLO-SAXON HOMILY

ON THE

BIRTHDAY OF ST. GREGORY,

AND

COLLATERAL EXTRACTS FROM KING ALFRED'S VERSION OF BEDE'S ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY, AND FROM THE SAXON CHRONICLE;

WITH A FULL RENDERING INTO ENGLISH, NOTES CRITICAL AND EXPLANATORY, AND AN INDEX OF STEMS AND FORMS.

BY LOUIS F. KLIPSTEIN,

AA. LL.M. & PH.D.

OF THE UNIVERSITY OF GIESSEN; AUTHOR OF "A GRAMMAR OF THE ANGLO-SAXON LANGUAGE," "ANALECTA ANGLO-SAXONICA," ETC.

NEW YORK:

GEORGE P. PUTNAM, 155 BROADWAY.

LONDON:—PUTNAM'S AMERICAN AGENCY.

M DCCC XLIX.

LIBRARY
APR
1982
PR
1526
G8A3
1849

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1849,
By GEORGE P. PUTNAM,
In the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York.

TO

THE REV. SAMUEL GILMAN, D. D.

WHOSE INTEREST IN BEHALF OF LITERATURE

IS ONLY SURPASSED BY HIS ZEAL IN THE CAUSE OF

RELIGION AND HUMANITY,

THIS SMALL VOLUME IS INSCRIBED AS A TOKEN OF REGARD.

PREFACE.

In presenting the Anglo-Saxon Homily on the Birth-day of St. Gregory to the American public, the Editor deems no apology necessary, as the chief object of the publication, the advancement of the study of the language in which it appears, must be evident to every mind. That it will subserve the purpose for which it is intended, though in a subordinate degree, he has every reason to believe.

This Homily is one of a series translated from the Latin, and modified to suit the Anglican Church, by Abbot Ælfric, who afterwards, in A. D. 996, succeeded Sigeric as Archbishop of Canterbury. It celebrates the introduction of Christianity among our Saxon forefathers after their establishment in the Island of Great Britain, exhibiting the interesting circumstance which led to the mission, and the holy zeal and indefatigable labor with which Augustine and his coadjutors set forth the truths of the Gospel; while at the same time, it holds up to view the amiable and apostolical character of that eminent servant of Jesus Christ, and ornament of the papal chair, St. Gregory, deservedly styled "the Great." As a specimen of the Anglo-Saxon language, it is remarkable for its purity; as a literary composition, the beauty of the style must strike the mind of every one who is capable of appreciating the nerve and force of expression employed by the Translator.

The Extracts from "King Alfred's Version of Bede's Ecclesiastical History of the Anglo-Saxons," and from the "Saxon Chronicle," have been appended because of their connection with the main subject of the Homily.

The Translation into English being united with the Notes, appears in the least objectionable form. The elucidation of words was deemed unnecessary, as the want in that respect has been fully met in another work prepared by the Editor, and now in press.

The punctuation of the Text has been made conformable to established rules, and, as is right, especially to those adopted for the English. There is no more reason why we should adhere to the old system of separating the parts of a sentence in Anglo-Saxon, than in other ancient languages. Upon a corresponding principle we might also have rendered the orthography of the same words more uniform.

St. James, Santee, S. C., May 1, 1848.

NATALE

S. GREGORII PAPAE.

Gregorius se hálga Papa, Engliscere ðeóde Apostol, on ðisum andweardan daege aefter manigfealdum gedeorfum and hálgum gecnyrdnyssum, Godes rice gesaeliglice astáh. He is rihtlice Engliscere ðeóde apostol, forðánðe he, ðurh his raede and sande, us fram deofles bigengum aetbraed, and tó Godes geleáfan gebigde. Manige hálige béc cythath his maéran drohtnunge, and his hálige lif; and eác Istoria Anglorum ðá-ðe Ælfred, Cyning, of Leden on Englisc awende. Seó bóc sprecth genóh swutelice be ðisum hálgan were. Nú wille we, ðeáh, sumðing scortlice eow be him gereccan, forðán-ðe seó fóresaéde bóc nis eow eallum cuth, ðeáh-ðe heó on Englisc awend is.

Ðes eádiga papa, Gregorius, waés of aethelre maégthe and of eáwfaestre acenned; Rómanisce witan waéron his mágos; his faeder hátte Gordianus, and Felix se eáwfaesta papa waés his fifta-faeder. He waés, swá-swá we cwaédon, for worulde aethelboren; ac he oferstáh his aethelborennysse mid hálgum ðeawum, and mid gódum weorcum geglengde. Gregorius is Grecisc nama, se swegth on Ledenum gereorde, Vigilantius; ðaet is on Englisce, Wacolre. He waés swythe wácol on Godes bebodum, ðá-ðá he-sylf hérigendlice leofode; and he wácollice ymb manigra ðeóda ðearfa hogode, and heom lífes wæg geswutelode. He wæs fram cildháde on bóclicum lárum getýd; and he on þære láre swá gesaeliglice þeáh, þaet on ealre Rómana-byrig næs nán his gelíca geþúht. He gecneord-læhte aefter wísra láreowa gebysnunga, and næs forgytel; ac gefaestnode his láre on faest-hafelum gemynde: he hlód mid þurstigum breoste þá flówendan láre, þe he eft aefter fyrste mid hunig-swétre þróte þaeslíce bealcode. On geonglicum geárum, þá-þá his geóguth aefter gecynde woruld-þing lufian sceolde, þá ongan he hine-sylfne tó Gode geþeódan and tó éthle þaes uplican lífes mid eallum gewilnungum órthian. Witodlice aefter his faeder forthsithe, he aræerde six munuc-líf on Sicilían-lande, and þaet seofothe binnon Rómana-byrig getimbrode, on þám he-sylf regollice under abbodes hæsum drohtnode. Þá seofon mynstru he geglengde mid his ágenum, and geníhtsumlice tó daeghwamlicum bígleofan gegódode. Þone ofer-eácan his æhta he aspende on Godes þearfum, and ealle his aethelborennysse tó Heofonlicum wuldre awende. He eóde, æer his gecyrrednysse, geond Rómana-burh mid paellenum gyrlum, and scínendum gymmum, and reádum golde gefraetewod. Ac aefter his gecyrrednysse he þénode Godes þearfum, and hine-sylfne þearfa mid wácum waefelse befeng. Swá fulfremedlice he drohtnode on anginne his gecyrrednysse, swá þaet he mihte þá-iú beón geteald on fulfremedra hálgena getæle. He lufode forhaefednysse on méttum and on drynce; and on waccum and on syndrigum gebedum þæertóeácan, he þrowode singallice untrumnysse, and swá, he stithlicor mid andweardum untrumnyssum ofset wæs, swá he geornfullicor þaes écan lífes gewilnode.

Þá undergeat se papa þe on þám tíman þaet apostollice setl gesæet, hú se eádiga Gregorius on hálgum maegnum þeónde wæs; and he þá hine genam of þære munuclicere drohtnunge, and him tó gefylste gesette, on diáconháde ge-endebyrdne. Þá gelamp hit aet sumum saele, swáswá hyt for-oft déth, þaet Englisce ceáp-menn bróhton heora wáre tó Rómana-byrig, and Gregorius eóde bé ðaére stræte tó ðám Engliscum mannum, heora ðing sceawigende. Ðá geseáh he betwux ðám wárum ceáp-cnihtas gesette, ðá waeron hwites líchaman and faegres andwlitan menn, and aethelice gefeaxode. Gregorius ðá beheold ðaéra cnapena wlíte, and befran of hwylcere ðeóde hí gebróhte waeron. Ðá saede him man, ðaet hí of Engla-lande waeron, and ðaet ðaére ðeóde mennisc swá wlítig waére. Eft ðá Gregorius befran, hwaether ðaes landes folc Cristen waére, ðe haethen. Him man saede, ðaet hí haethene waeron. Gregorius ðá of inneweardre heortan langsume siccetunge teáh, and cwaeth: 'Wælá-wá! ðaet swá faegres híwes menn syndon ðám sweartan deofle under-ðeodde!' Eft ðá Gregorius befran, hú ðaére ðeóde nama waére ðe hí ofcómon. Him waes ge-andwyrd, ðaet hí Angle genemnde waeron. Ðá cwaeth he: 'Rihtlice hí syndon Angle gehátene, forðán-ðe hí engla wlíte habbath, and swilcum gedafenath ðaet hí on heofenum engla geferan beón.' Gyt-ðá Gregorius befran, hú ðaére scýre nama waére ðe ðá cnapan ofalaedde waeron. Him man saede, ðaet ðá scírmen waeron Deïri gehátene. Gregorius andwyrde: 'Wel hí syndon Deïri gehátene, forðán-ðe hí synd fram graman generode, and tó Cristes mildheortnysse gecygede.' Gyt-ðá he befran, 'Hú is ðaére scíre cyning geháten?' Him waes ge-andswarod, ðaet se cyning Ælla geháten waére. Hwaet-ðá Gregorius gúmenode mid his wordum tó ðám naman, and cwaeth: 'Hit gedafenath ðaet Allelúia sý gesungen on ðám lande tó lófe ðaes Ælmihtigan Scyppendes.' Gregorius ðá eóde tó ðám papan ðaes apostolican setles, and hine baed ðaet he Angel-cynne sume láreowas asende, ðe hí tó Criste gebigdon mid Godes fultume; and cwaeth ðaet he-sylf geáro waére ðaet weorc tó gefremmanne, gyf hit ðám papan swá gelícode. Ðá ne mihte se papa ðaet geðafian, ðeáh-ðe he eall wolde, forðán-ðe ðaére Rómaniscan ceastre gewaran noldon geþafian, þaet swá getogen man, and swá geþungen láreow þá burh eallunga forlete, and swá fyrlenne wraecsith gename.

Æfter-þisum gelamp þaet mycel mán-cwealm becóm ofer þaere Rómaniscre leóde, and aerest þone papan Pelagíum gestód, and buton yldinge hine adydde. Witodlice aefter þaes papan ge-endunge, swá mycel cwealm gewearth þaes folces, þaet gehwaer stódon awéste hús geond þá burh buton búgigendum. Þá ne mihte, swá-þeáh, seó Rómana-burh buton papan wunian, ac eall þaet folc þone eádigan Gregoríum tó þaere geþincthe ánmódlice geceás, þeáh-þe he mid eallum maegnum witherigende waere. Gregoríus þá sende aenne pistol tó þám Cásere Mauricío, se waes his faedera, and hine halsode and myclum baed, þaet he naefre þám folce ne geþafode, þaet he mid þaes wurth-myntes wuldre ge-ufenod waere; forþán-þe he ondred, þaet he, þurh þone myclan hád, on woruldlicum wuldre, þe he aer awearp, aet sumum saele bepaeht wurde. Ac þaes Cáseres heáh-gereca, Germánus, gelaehte þone pistol, and hine to-taer; and siththan cydde þám Cásere, þaet eall þaet folc Gregoríum tó papan gecoren haefde. Mauricíus þá se Cáser, þaes Gode þancode, and hine hádian heht. Hwaet-þá Gregorius fleámes cepte, and on dimhofan aetlútode; ac hine man gelaehte, and teáh tó Pétres circan, þaet he þaer tó papan gehálgod wurde. Gregoríus þá aer his hádunge þaet Rómanisce folc for þám onsígendan cwealme þisum wordum hí tó behreówsunge tihte:

'Mine Gebróthra, þá leófostan! Us gedafenath, þaet we Godes swingle, þe we on-aer tówearde ondraedan sceoldon, þaet we huru nú andwearde and afandede ondredon. Ge-openige us úre saernys infaer sóthre gecyrrednysse; and þaet wite þe we þrowiath, to-brece úre heortan heardnysse. Efne nú þis folc is mid swurde þaes heofonlican graman ofslagen, and gehwylce aenlipige synd mid faerlicum slýhtum awéste. Ne seó adl þám deathe ne fóre-staepth; ac ge geseóth ṭhaet se ylca deáth ṭhaere adle fóreradath. Se geslagena býth mid deathe gegripen aerṭhánṭhe he tó heófungum sóthre behreówsunge gecyrran maege. Hogiath forṭhý, hwylc se becume aetfóran gesýhthe ṭhaes strecan Déman, se-ṭhe ne maeg ṭhaet yfel bewépan ṭhe he gefremmode. Gehwylce eorth-búgigende synd aetbrodene, and heora hús standath awéste. Faederas and modru bestandath heora bearna líc, and heora yrfe-numan heom-sylfum tó forwyrde fóre-staeppath. Uton eornostlice fleón tó heófunge sóthre daedbóte ṭhá-hwíle-ṭhe we móton, aerṭhánṭhe se faerlica slege us astrecce. Uton gemunan swá-hwaetswá we dweligende agylton, and uton mid wópe gewítnian ṭhaet-ṭhaet we mánfullice adrugon. Uton fóre-radian Godes ansýne on andetnysse, swá-swá se witega us manath. Uton ahebban úre heortan mid handum tó Gode, ṭhaet is, ṭhaet we scealon ṭhá gecnyrdnysse úre béne mid ge-árnunge gódes weorces up-araeran. He forgifth trúwan úre forhtunge, se-ṭhe ṭhurh his witegan clypath: "Nelle ic ṭhaes sinfullan death; ac ic wille ṭhaet he gecyrre and libbe." Ne or-trúwige nán man hine-sylfne for his synna mycelnysse. Witodlice ṭhá ealdan gyltas Niniueïscre ṭheóde, ṭhreóra daga behreówsung hý adylegode; and se gecyrreda sceátha on his deathes cwyde ṭhaes écan lífes méde ge-árnode. Uton awendan úre heortan tó Gode. Hraedlice býth se Déma tó úrum bénum gebiged, gif we fram úrum ṭhwyrnyssum beóth geriht-laehte. Uton standan mid gemáhlicum wópum ongean ṭhám onsigendan swurde swá mycles dómes. Sóthlice gemáhnys is ṭhám sóthan Déman gecweme, ṭheáhṭhe heó mannum unṭhancwyrth sý; forṭhán-ṭhe se árfesta and se mildheorta God wile ṭhaet we mid gemáhlicum bénum his mildheortnysse ofgán; and he nele swá-myclumswá we ge-árniath us ge-ýrsian. Be ṭhisum he cwaeth ṭhurh his witegan: "Clypa me on daege ṭhínre gedrefednysse, and ic wille ṭhé ahraeddan, and ṭhú maersast me." God-sylf is his gewita, ṭhaet he miltsian wile him tó clypiendum, se-ṭhe manath ṭhaet we him tó clypian sceolon.

Forthý, mine Gebróthru, thá leófostan, uton gecuman on thám feórthan daege thissere wúcan on æerne-merigen, and mid éstfullum móde and teárum, singan seofonfealde Letanías, thaet se streca Déma us ge-árige, thónne he gesýhth thaet we-sylfe úre gyltas wrecath.'

Eornostlice thá-thá seó mycele menigu, aegther-ge preosthádes ge munuc-hádes menn, and thaet leáwede folc, aefter thaes eádigan Gregoríes hæse, on thone Wódnes-daeg tó thám seofonfealdum Letaníum gecómon, tó-thán-swythe awedde se fóre-sæda cwealm, thaet hund-eahtatig manna on thæ̀re ánre tíde feallende, of life gewiton thá-hwýle-the thaet folc thá Letanías sang. Ac se hálga sacerd ne geswác thaet folc tó manigenne, thaet hí thæ̀re béne ne geswicon oth-thaet Godes miltsung thone réthan cwealm gestilde.

Hwaet-thá Gregorius, siththan he papanhád underfeng, gemunde hwaet he gefyrn Angel-cynne gemynte, and thæ̀rrihte thaet luftýme weorc gefremmode. He nátes-hwón ne mihte thone Rómaniscan bisceop-stól eallunga forlæ̀tan; ac he asende othre aerend-racan, gethungene Godes theowas tó thisum íglande, and he-sylf myclum mid his bénum and tihtingum fylste, thaet thæ̀ra aerend-racena bódung forthgange, and Gode waestm-baere wurde. Thæ̀ra aerend-racena naman synd thus gecygede: Augustínus, Mellítus, Laurentíus, Pétrus, Jóhannes, Justus. Thás láreowas asende se eádiga papa Gregorius, mid manigum othrum munecum, tó Angel-cynne, and hí thisum wordum tó thæ̀re fare tihte: 'Ne beón ge afyrhte thurh geswinc thaes langsuman fareldes, oththe thurh yfelra manna ymbe-spraece; ac mid ealre ánraednysse and wylme thæ̀re sóthan lufe, thás ongunnenan thing, thurh Godes fultum, gefremmath; and wite ge thaet eower méd on thám écan édleáne swámycle máre býth, swá-myclum-swá ge máre for Godes willan swincath. Gehýrsumiath eádmódlice on eallum thingum Augustíne, thone-the we eow ealdor gerehton. Hit fremath eowrum sawlum, swá-hwaet-swá ge be his mynegunge gefyllath. Se Ælmihtiga God, þurh his gife, eow gescýlde, and ge-unne me þæt ic maege eowres geswinces waestm on þám écan édleáne geseón; swá-þæt ic beó gemet sámod on blisse eowres édleánes, þeáh-þe ic mid eow swincan ne maege forþán-þe ic wille swincan.' Augustínus þá mid his geferum, þæt synd gerehte feowertig, ferdon be Gregoríes hæse, oth-þæt hí becómon gesúndfullice tó þisum íglande.

On þám dagum ríxode Æthelbriht, Cyning, on Cantwarabyrig, and his ríce wæs astreht fram þæ̀re myclan eá Humbre oth súth-sæ̀. Augustínus haefde genumen wealh-stódas on Francena ríce, swá-swá Gregoríus him bebeád, and he, þurh þæ̀ra wealh-stóda muth, þám cyninge and his leóde Godes word bódode: hú se mildheorta Hæ̀lend mid his ágenre þrowunge, þisne scyldigan middan-eard alýsde, and geleáffullum mannum heofona ríces infaer geopenode. Þá andswyrde se cyning, Æthelbriht, Augustíne and cwæ̀th, þæt he faegere word and behát him cydde; and cwæ̀th þæt he ne mihte swá hraedlice þone ealdan gewunan, þe he mid Angel-cynne heold, forlæ̀tan. Cwæ̀th þæt he móste freólice þá heofonlican láre his leóde bódian, and þæt he him and his geferum bígleofan þenian wolde, and forgeáf him þá wununge on Cantwara-byrig, seó wæs ealles his ríces heófod-burh.

Ongan þá Augustínus mid his munecum tó ge-efen-laeccanne þæ̀ra Apostola líf, mid singalum gebedum, and waeccum, and faestnum Gode þeowigende, and lífes word þám þe hí mihton bódigende; ealle middan-eardlice þing swá-swá ael-fremede forhogigende, þá þing áne þe hí to bígleofan behofodon underfónde, be þám þe hi tæ̀hton sylfe lybbende, and for þæ̀re sóðfaestnysse lufe þá hí bódedon, geárwe wæ̀ron éhtnysse tó þóligenne, and deathe sweltan, gif hí þorfton. Hwaet-þá gelýfdon for-wel manige, and on Godes naman gefullode wurdon, wundrigende þæ̀re bylewitnysse heora unscæ̀thigan lífes, and swétnysse heora heofonlican láre. Þá aet-nextan gelustfullode þám cyninge Æthelbrihte heora claene líf, and heora winsume behát, tha sóthlice wurdon mid manigum tácnum gesethede, and he tha gelýfende wearth gefullod, and myclum tha Cristenan ge-árwurthode, and swá-swá heofonlice ceaster-gewaran lufode. He nolde, swá-theáh, naenne tó Cristendóme geneádian; forthán-the he of-axode aet thám láreowum his haele, thaet Cristes theowdóm ne sceol beón geneádod, ac sylf-wylles. Ongunnon tha daeghwamlice for-wel manige efstan tó gehýranne tha hálgan bódunge, and forlaetan heora haethenscype, and heó-sylfe getheódan tó Cristes geláthunge, on hine gelýfende.

Betweox-thisum gewende Augustínus ofer sae tó thám arcebisceope Etherie of Arela, and he hine gehádode Angelcynne tó arcebisceope swá-swá him Gregorius aer gewíssode. Augustínus tha gehádod cyrde tó his bisceop-stóle, and asende aerend-racan tó Róme, and cydde thám eádigan Gregorie thaet Angel-cyn Cristendóme underfeng, and he eác mid gewritum fela thinga befran, hú him tó drohtnigenne waere betweox thám nig-hworfenan folce. Hwaet-tha Gregorius myclum Gode thancode mid blissigendum móde thaet Angel-cynne swá gelumpen waes, swá-swá he-sylf geornlice gewilnode; and sende ongean aerend-racan tó thám geleáffullan cyninge Æthelbrihte mid gewritum and manigfealdum lacum; and othre gewritu tó Augustíne mid andswarum ealra thaera thinga the he hí befran, and hine eác thisum wordum manode: "Bróthor mín, se leófesta! Ic wat thaet se Ælmihtiga fela wundra thurh thé thaere theóde the he geceás, geswutelath, thaes thú miht blissian, and eác ondraedan. Thú miht blissian, gewíslice, thaet thaere theóde sawla thurh tha ýttran wundra beóth getogene tó thaere incundan gife. Ondraed thé, swá-theáh, thaet thín mód ne beó ahafen mid dyrstignysse on thám tácnum the God thurh thé gefremmath, and thú thánon on ídelum wuldre befealle withinnan, thánon-the thú withútan on wurth-mynte ahafen býst."

Gregorius asende eác Augustíne háligu lac on maessereáfum and on bócum, and ṭhára apostola and martira RELIQUIAS sámod; and bebeád ṭhaet his aeftergengas symble ṭhaet pallíum and ṭhone erce-hád aet ṭhám apostolican setle Rómaniscre Geláthunge feccan sceoldon. Augustínus gesette, aefter-ṭhisum, bisceopas of his geferum on gehwilcum burgum on Engla-ṭheóde; and hí on Godes geleáfan ṭheónde ṭhurhwunedon oth ṭhisum daegṭhérlican daege.

Se eádiga Gregorius gedíhte manige hálige traht-béc, and mid mycelre gecneordnysse Godes folc tó ṭhám écan life gewíssode, and fela wundra on his life geworhte, and wuldorfullice ṭhaes papan-setles geweold ṭhreottyne geár, and six monthas, and ten dagas: and siththan on ṭhisum daege gewát tó ṭhám écan setle heofena-ríces, on ṭhám he leofath mid Gode Ælmihtigum á butan ende, Amen!

EXTRACT FROM KING ALFRED'S VERSION OF BEDE'S ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY.

Book II.—Chapter I.

"Nis us þónne se hlisa tó forswigienne, þe be þám eádigan Gregorius þurh yldra manna segene tó us becóm. For hwylcum intingan he monad wǽre, þaet he swá geornfulle gýmenne dyde ymb þá hǽele úre þeóde.

"Secgath hí þaet súme daege þider niwan cómon cýpmenn of Brytene; and monige cép-þing tó ceáp-stowe bróhton; and eác monige cómon tó bycgeanne þá þing. Þá gelamp hit þaet Gregorius betwýh othre eác þider cóm; and þá geseáh betwýh othre þing cép-cnihtas þǽr gesette wǽron, hwites lichoman and faegeres andwlitan menn, and aethelice gefeaxode. Þá he þá hí geseáh and beheold, þá fraegn he of hwylcum lande, oththe of hwylcere þeóde hí bróhte wǽron. Sǽde him man, þaet hí of Bryten-eálonde bróhte wǽron, and þaes eálondes bigengan swylcre ansýne menn wǽron. Eft he fregn hwaether þá ylcan landleóda Cristene wǽron, þe hí þá-gyt on haéthennysse gedwolum lifdon. Cwǽth him man tó and sǽde, þaet hí þá gyt haéthene wǽron; and he þá of inneweardre heortan swithe sworete, and þus cwǽth 'Wá-lá-wá! þaet is sárlic, þaet swá faegres feores, and swá leohtes wlites menn sceolon ágan and besittan Þhystra Ealdor!' Eft he fraegn hwaet seó þeód nemned wǽre, þe hí of cómon. Þá andswarede him mon, þaet hi Engle nemnde wǽron. Cwǽth he, 'Wel þaet swá maeg, for-þón engle-lice ansýne hi habbath, and eác swylcum gedafenath þaet hí engla efenyrfeweardas on heofonum sín.' Þá-gyt he furthor fraegn, and cwǽth, 'Hwaet hátte seó maégth, þe þás cnihtas hider of gelaedde wǽron.' Þá andswaerde him mon and cwáeth, þaet hi DEÏRI nemnde wǽron. Cwǽeth he, 'Wel þaet is cweden, DEÏRI (DE IRA eruti) hí sculon beón of Godes ýrre abrodene; and tó Cristes mildheortnysse gecygde.' Þá-gyt he acsade hwaet heora cyning háten wǽre; and him mon answarede and cwǽeth, þaet he ÆLLA háten wǽre. And þá pleogode he mid his wordum tó þám naman, and cwǽeth: 'Allelúia! þaet gedafenath, þaette Godes lóf úres Scyppendes on þám dǽlum gesungen sí.' And he þá-sona eóde tó þám biscope, tó þám papan þaes Apostolican setles,—forþón he-sylf þá-gyt ne wǽs biscop geworden—, bǽd hine þaet he Angel-þeóde on Breotene onsende hwylce-hugu láreowas, þaet þurh þá hí tó Criste gecyrde beón mihton; and cwǽeth þaet he-sylf geáro wǽre, mid Godes fultume, þaet weorc tó gefremmanne, gif þám Apostolican papan þaet licode, and þaet his willa wǽre, and his lýfnys. Þá ne wolde se papa þaet geþafigean, ne þá burhware þón-má, þaet swá aethel wer, and swá geþungen, and swá gelǽered, swá feor fram him gewite. Ac he, sona-hrathe-þaes-þe he biscop geworden wǽs, þaet he gefremmede þaet weorc þaet he lange wilnade, and þá hálgan láreowas hider onsende, þe we ǽer beforan sǽdon; and he, Scs. Gregorius, mid his trymnyssum, and mid his gebedum wǽs gefultumiende, þaet heora lár wǽre waestm-berende tó Godes willan, and tó raede Angel-cynne."

EXTRACTS FROM THE SAXON CHRONICLE.

A.D. 560. Hér feng Æthelbriht tó Cantwara-ríce, and heold hit LVI. wintra. On his dagum sende se hálga papa Gregorius us fulluht, þaet wás on þám twám and þritigothan geáre his ríces. . . . .

A.D. 592. Hér Gregorius feng tó papdóme on Róme.

A.D. 596. Hér Gregorius, Papa, sende tó Bretene Augustínum mid wel monigum munecum, þá Godes word Ængla-þeóde gódspellian.

A.D. 597. . . . Hér cóm Augustínus and his geferan tó Engla-lande.

A.D. 601. Hér sende Gregorius se papa Augustíne, Arcebisceope, pallium on Brytene, and wel monige godcunde láreowas tó fultume. . . . . .

A.D. 604. Hér Augustínus gehálgod II. biscopas, Mellítum and Iustum. Mellitum he sende tó bódianne East-Seaxum fulluht. . . . . And Æthelbyrht gesealde Mellíte biscop-setl on Lunden-wic, and Justo he sealde biscop-setl on Hrófes-ceastre, se ys XXIV. míla fram Dorwit-ceastre.

A.D. 606. Hér forthferde Gregorius, ymb tyn geár þaes þe he us fulwiht sende. . . . . .

A.D. 616. Hér Æthelbyrht, Cantwara Cyning, forthferde, se aerost fulwiht underfeng Engliscra cinga. . . . . On þyses cinges (Eádbald) dagum, se ylca Laurentius arceb., se wás on Cent aefter Augustíne, forthferde IV. Non. Feb., and he wás bebyrged bé Augustíne. Se hálga Augustínus bé his hálan líue, hine hádode tó biscope, tó-þí-þaet Cristes geláthung, þe þá-git waes niwe on Engla-lande, náne hwíle aefter his forthsithe naere butan arcebiscope. Þá aefter him feng Mellítus tó arceb.-dóme, se wás aer biscop of Lunden. . . . Þá wurdon Lunden-ware haethene.

TRANSLATION AND NOTES.

BIRTH-DAY OF ST. GREGORY.

'NATALE,' i. e. BIRTH-DAY TO THE EVERLASTING LIFE, as will appear in the sequel.

Gregorius . . . . . Apostol—"Gregory the Holy Pope, of the Anglo-Saxon nation the Apostol,"—'Engliscere,' rather "Englisc," than "English," as the appellation is commonly rendered. Indeed, the difference between the terminations -isc and-ish, philologically expresses that of the nation in its two stages; Analecta Anglo-Saxonica, Introduction, § 82, Note (1).

On . . daege—"on this present day," Gregory departed this life on the 1st day of March, (O. S.), A. D. 605.

Æfter . . . . gecnyrdnyssum—"after manifold labors and sacred studies,"

Godes . . astáh—"happily ascended unto the kingdom of God."

He . . . . Apostol—"He is rightly the apostol of the Anglo-Saxon nation,"—'Rihtlice,' "rightly," in the sense of "justly."

Forthán-the . . . . sande—"because that he, through his counsel and mission,"—'Forthán-the,' "for the reason that;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Section XI.

Us . . . aetbraed—"delivered us from the worship of the devil,"—'Bigengum,' the plural, "from the services," "religious duties, or exercises." Another, but less correct form of this word is, 'biggengum.'

And . . . gebigde—"and turned us unto the faith of God."—'Gebigde,' rather, "turned about," "reduced," "caused to bow, or bend."

Manige . . . . . líf—"Many holy books tell of his illustrious acts, and of his divine life,"—'Drohtnunge,' "conversation," "conduct," "acts, or actions," and usually denoting the general tenor of one's life. In the sense of "acts, or doings," the singular is always used for the plural, even in the titles of books: as, 'On thaera Apostola Drohtnunge,' In the Acts of the Apostols.

And . . . . . awende—"and also the HISTORIA ANGLORUM which Alfred, the King, translated from Latin into Anglo-Saxon."—'HISTORIA ANGLORUM,' the History of the Angles, referring to the one written by the Venerable Bede at the instance of Ceólwulph, son and successor to Alfred of Northumbria, from which we give an Extract.—'Thá-the,' "the which," "that which," "the, or that one which."—'Ælfred, Cyning,' "Alfred, King," the common mode in expressing the title, office, profession, or trade of an individual; whence the easy transition to surnames; Grammar, § 76, Note 1.

Seó . . . . . were—"That book speaks plainly enough concerning this holy man."—'Seó,' the article in the original sense of the definitive "that;" Anal. Anglo-Sax. Part I., Sec. I.

Nú .... gereccan—"now will we, however, briefly narrate unto you something about him,"

Forṭhán-ṭhe ..... cuth—"because that the aforesaid book is not known unto you all,"—'Nis,' "is not," the negative combined with the verb by contraction; Gram. §198.

Ṭheáh-ṭhe .... is—"though it has been translated into Anglo-Saxon."—'Ṭheáh,' evidently once a preposition, and in the present instance governing 'ṭhe' in its definitive sense; the literal signification of the phrase, therefore, is, "notwithstanding that;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. IX.—'Awend is,' strictly, "is translated, or turned."

Ṭhes ..... acenned—"This blessed Pope Gregory was born of a noble family and pious;"—'Of eáwfaestre,' "of a pious."

Rómanisce .... mágos—"Roman senators were among his near kinsmen;"—'His mágos,' "near kinsman of him, or of his;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. IV.

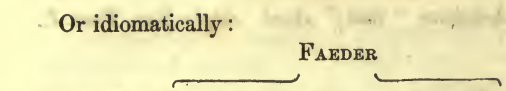
His ..... fifta-faeder—"his father was named Gordian, and Felix, the pious Pope, was a great grandfather of his."—'Felix se eáwfesta papa;' Felix IV., who was Bishop, or Pope of Rome A. D. 526, and, according to Bede, "a man of great honor in Christ and his Church."—'Fifta-faeder,' literally, "fifth-father." The relationship must be computed back in the following manner:

FATHER

FATHER'S FATHER — MOTHER'S FATHER

FATHER'S FATHER'S FATHER — MOTHER'S FATHER'S FATHER,

Or idiomatically:



He ..... aethelboren—"He was, as we have said, noble-born with regard to the world;"

Ac .... theawum—"but he surpassed his noble birth in holy manners,"—'Mid,' "with," "by means of," "in."

And .... geglengde—"and adorned it with good works."

GREGORÍUS ..... Wácolre—"GREGORY is a Greek name, which signifies in the Latin language, VIGILANTIUS; that is, in Anglo-Saxon, WACOLRE." Ælfric would seem to have rendered 'Gregorius' into 'Wácolre,' through 'Vigilantius' as the comparative neuter of 'Vigilans.' The impropriety of translating 'Englisce,' in this case, by "English" would be very evident. 'Wácolre' is Anglo-Saxon, but, certainly, not English.

He ..... bebodum—"He was very watchful in the commands of God,"

Þá-þá ... leofode—"since he lived praiseworthily *him*self;"

And ..... hogode—"and he was watchfully concerned about the necessities of many nations,"

And .... geswutelode—"and made known unto them the way of life."

He . . . . . getýd—'He was from childhood imbued with bookly precepts;"

And . . . . . ṭheáh—"and he progressed so happily in that sort of learning,"—'On ṭhære láre,' perhaps simply, "in learning."

Ṭhaet . . . . geṭhúht—"that there was thought no one his equal in all the city of the Romans."—'Naés,' like 'nis:'—'Naés—nán;' the negation in Anglo-Saxon is strengthened by the double negative; Gram. § 465.

He . . . . forgytel—"He studied after the models of wise masters, and was not forgetful;"—'Gebysnunga,' referring to models of style and of intrinsic excellency.

Ac . . . . gemynde—"but fixed his instruction in a retentive memory;"

He . . . láre—"he imbibed with thirsty breast the flowing doctrine,"

Ṭhe . . . . bealcode—"which he again after a space poured forth in the like manner from throat sweeter than honey." The metaphor is drawn from the bee.—'Hunig-swétre,' lit. "honey-sweeter."

On . . . . . sceolde—"In early years, when his youth according to nature should love worldly things,"—'Woruld-ṭhing,' lit. "world-things."

Ṭhá . . . . . geṭheódan—"at that time did he begin to unite himself unto God,"

And . . . . . órthian—"and to aspire after the country of the life on high with all longings."

Witodlice .... forthsithe—"Indeed after his father's decease,"

He ..... Sicilian-lande—"he erected six monasteries in the land of Sicily,"—'Munuc-líf,' lit. "monk-livings."

And .... getimbrode—"and built the seventh within the city of the Romans,"

On ..... drohtnode—"in which he lived regularly himself under the orders of the abbot."

Ṭhá .... ágenum—"Those seven minsters he embellished with his own means,"

And ..... gegódode—"and amply endowed for their daily support."

Ṭhóne ..... ṭhearfum—"The surplus of his property he expended in the necessities of God."—'Æhta,' the plural, "possessions."

And .... awende—"and turned all his nobility unto the Divine glory."—'Heofonlicum,' "Heavenly."

He .. gefraetewod—"Before his conversion, he went about the city of the Romans adorned with purple robes, and glittering gems, and red gold."

Ac ..... ṭhearfum—"But after his conversion he ministered unto the wants of God,"

And .... befeng—"and needy, clothed himself with mean raiment."

Swá ..... gecyrrednysse—"So perfectly did he live at the beginning of his conversion,"

Swá . . . . . getaéle—"that he might even then have been reckoned in the number of the perfect saints."—'Swá-ṭ̣haet,' lit. "as that."—'Ṭ̣há-iú,' "already," "even then."

He . . . . drynce—"He cherished abstinence in meats and in drink;"

And . . . . ṭ̣haértó-eácan—"and by watchings and through sundry prayers in addition thereto,"—'Ṭ̣haértó-eácan,' a compound for the true nature of which, see Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI., and Glossary sub. sing. vocibus.

He . . . . untrumnysse—"he continually suffered indisposition,"

And . . . waés—"and so, he was the more severely afflicted with present infirmities,"

Swá . . . . gewilnode—"as he the more earnestly longed for the eternal life."

Ṭ̣há . . . . gesaét—"Then understood the pope who at that time occupied the apostolical chair,"

Hú . . . . waés—"in what manner the blessed Gregory was increasing in holy powers;"

And . . . . drohtnunge—"and he therefore withdrew him from the monastic service,"

And . . . . ge-endebyrdne—"and appointed him ordained to the office of deacon as assistant unto him*self*."—'Tó gefylste,' lit. "to, or for aid, help."—'On diáconháde,' lit. "to the deaconhood."

Ṭ̣há . . déth—"Then happened it on a certain occasion, as it ofttimes does," Alluding in the latter clause to the practice still common in his day, of what immediately follows.—'Swá-swá,' lit. "so-as."—'For-oft,' "for oft."

Ṭhaet.... Rómana-byrig—"that Anglo-Saxon chapmen brought their merchandize unto the city of the Romans,"—'Ceáp-menn,' "chapmen," now found only as a surname in the singular, or "tradesmen."—'Wáre,' "ware," or "wares," "merchandize."

And..... sceawigende—"and Gregory went along the street unto the Anglo-Saxon men, inspecting their things."

Ṭhá.... gesette—"Then observed he placed among the wares youths intended for sale,"—'Ceáp-cnihtas,' "chap-boys," we may say, or, "boys for the market," "young slaves." Hence the origin of our word "chap," now used for "boy," in contempt.

Ṭhá.... menn—"who were persons of white body and comely aspect,"—'Hwítes,' "white, or fair" contrasted with the darker complexions of the south of Europe.—'Faegres,' "fair," "beauteous."

And.... gefeaxode—"And possessed of noble heads of hair."—'Æthelice gefeaxode,' "nobly-haired," referring especially to their graceful locks, as is implied in 'gefeaxode.' The Anglo Saxons were remarkable for the beauty of their hair, as well as for comeliness of aspect in general; and, indeed, we have seldom seen a beautiful head of hair without a corresponding fairness of person. "The mysteries of curling, turning, and dividing the hair over the back of the head," says a writer, "were derived from the Saxon ladies; and it is to be noted that the Anglo-Saxon females sedulously avoided going with their heads bare, as the head-rail or veil was commonly used; sometimes worn under a golden band.

The beautiful long hair of the English was a subject of universal admiration, which the courtiers of William the Conqueror, on his return to Normandy, expressed in no measured terms, on beholding those of his new subjects whom he brought with him."*

* The following extract from one of the numerous productions of a deservedly popular American author we cannot forbear noticing, as it has ever been too much the custom with some to disparage the Saxon, and elevate the Norman at his cost. We regard it as containing a libel upon the Saxon name. "Such," says the writer, "is the North American Indian. He probably bore an equivalent relation to the original possessors of this continent, with the barbarians of the Northern Hive to Italy, in the days of her luxurious decline. At the time of the discovery of America, he was very much the sort of savage that the historians represent the Gaul, the Goth, and Cimbrian to have been during the wars of Camillus and of Catulus, of the Scipios and of Caius Marius. The Teutones—the great German family with all its tribes—were all of this complexion; neither braver nor wiser, nor better, nor more skilful in the arts, nor possessed of a jot more of imagination and letters, at the moment when they first became known to civilization. The Saxon Boor, when scourged by the Norman into manhood and stature, moral and physical, had given scarcely more proofs of intellectual endowment than the red men of the great Apalachian chain. He was a christian, it is true, after a fashion; but christianity is properly the religion of civilization, and he was not a civilized being; far less so, as we know, in the time of Rollo, than was the Mexican during the reign of Montezuma."—Views and Reviews in American Literature, History and Fiction, pp. 108, 109.

Now the Northmen, or Scandinavians were certainly not superior in person to their cousin-Germans and neighbors, the Angles, Saxons and Jutes, since they occupied almost the same, if not a less genial clime when they first come under our notice in Europe. Nor have we any reason to believe that they became more improved under the modified name of Normans, by commixture with the Keltico-Kymric population of the northwest of Gaul, although containing a slight infusion of Roman blood, than the other peoples by their change of soil without incorporation with the Romanized Briton. The people of England at the present day, peer and peasant, even when pure, or almost pure Saxon, we are also inclined to think, are possessed of at least as much comeliness as the same grades in Normandy, supposing the population of Neustria to have received much of a Northmannic admixture.

Ṭhá .... wǽron—"Then said they unto him, that they were from the land of the Angles,"—'Engla-lande,' "the land, or country of the Angles," since contracted into England; Anal. Anglo-Sax., Introd. § 77.

And .... wǽre—"and that the people generally of that nation were as comely."—'Ṭhǽre,' we have substituted for the common reading 'ṭhára,' "of those," as it is not only more correct, but accords with the same form of expression in a passage which will presently appear, as well as with

---

If Saxon boorishness called forth so much admiration, as we perceive from the Roman in the sixth century, and from the Norman in the eleventh, they themselves, the latter especially, required to be "scourged" into "manhood" and "stature," in other words, we presume, into form.

The chief personal characteristic of the Norman was smallness of the hands and feet, amounting, in some measure, to deformity from the want of proportion with the other parts of the body, a characteristic which was considered during the middle ages as a criterion of origin, and which is said to show itself more or less to this day. So, that order of female beauty, which artists delight to portray, and poets to describe, an order of beauty pre-eminently celestial, and which is peculiarly Saxon, develops itself, in every generation, not only in Great Britain and America, but even among the Atlas mountains, and wherever the Germanic footstep has trod.

We might in vain seek for examples of a purer Christianity than can be found in the early Anglican Church. The names of Alfred of Northumbria, "the learned in the Scriptures" and of Alfred "the Great," of Bede "the Venerable" and of Abbot Ælfric, besides a host of others, would be an ornament to any age and people. Witness also the extent of Christian literature among the Saxons at a period when the Northmen under their Vîkingr, or, as they would now be termed, pirate-chieftains, were roving over the seas and landing upon every coast for plunder. Hengist and Horsa, the Jutes, Ella and Cerdic, the Saxons, in the middle and latter part of the fifth century, with Ida, the Angle, in the middle of the sixth, were as much civilized, and equally as much Christian as "Rollo," the Northman, when he appears at the head of an expedition in a later age.

the 'thaes' of the next sentence.—'Mennisc,' "the population of a country in general," when predicated of any particular one.—'Waere,' lit. "might be," the subjunctive, with 'thaet,' for the indicative.

Eft . . . haethen—"Gregory then again inquired, whether the people of that country were Christian, or heathen."

Him . . . . . waeron—"They said unto him, that they were heathen."

The general literature of the Saxons is of an earlier date than that of the Normans by several centuries, if indeed the latter ever had any at all until after their conquest of England. The earliest production in Norman-French that has come down to us, the Laws of William the Conqueror, dates from the period which we have just named, while the Laws of Ethelbert the Saxon were committed to writing not long after the reintroduction of Christianity into the island in A. D. 596. Many of the Saxon poems are supposed to be much older, and were probably handed down by the Scóp, while others transmitted in the same way, were suffered to perish after the nation had embraced the religion of the Gospel. It is hardly necessary to say that the Anglo-Saxon literature is both vernacular and Latin.

Both the civilization and the Christianity of the Saxon suffered from the Norman invasion. The Conquest, we may safely assert, spread a flood of barbarism over England from which the country hardly recovered in two centuries; not indeed, until the native element from the Norman exhaustion in the Crusades, began to regain the ascendancy. As an evidence of the want of refinement on the part of the Conquerors, we will observe that they could not appreciate some of the most beautiful forms which the Anglo-Saxons had thrown around the institution of chivalry among them; forms that were recognized in the course of time by the rest of Europe, and that gave to knighthood its most solemn and religious character.

Having touched upon Anglo-Saxon chivalry, we will give a description of the Saxon courtier and gentleman, in the time of Edgar, as quoted from the Monk of Ramsay by Sharon Turner, premising that such specimens of Saxon humanity both before and after that time were not uncommon. "His innate prudence," says the chronicler, "his noble birth, and approved vigor of body in warlike affairs, had obtained from the king much dignity and favor. He was distinguished for religion at home, and for the exercise of his strength and use of military discipline abroad. He adorned the nobility which he derived from his birth by the beauty of his manners. Cheerful and pleasing in his countenance; venerable in his mien; courteous in his fluent conversation; mild and sincere in his words; in duty impartial; and in his affections cautious; with a heart resembling his face; constant in good faith; steady and devout. In council persuading what was right; ending disputes by the equity of his judgments; revering the divine love in others, and persuading them to cultivate it." Whether the possessor of such a character, person, disposition and address required to be "scourged," and "by the Norman," too!! "into manhood and stature, moral and physical," we leave it to others to judge.

Gregorius . . . . teáh—"Gregory then drew a long sigh from the bottom of his heart,"—'Of inneweardre heortan,' lit. "from his inward heart."—'Langsume,' "longsome," "slow."

---

Let us, therefore, no longer see the Saxon "boor," "churl," and "hind," placed in contrast with the chivalry and nobility of the Normans. If the terms must be used, let them be used in contradistinction to the Norman villain.

We will also observe in conclusion that the comparison instituted for the North American Indian, might hold good between him and the "Gaul" and "Cimbrian," since they, according to all received accounts, possessed the same instability of character, the same faithlessness and ferocity, without a proper share of those qualities usually considered redeeming. But how different the character of the Teuton—of whose great family the Goth was a noble member,—of the Teuton as portrayed by the masterly pen of Tacitus! What comparison can be drawn between a race which recedes and perishes before civilization, and one which, coming in contact with the decaying vigor of the ancient world, with the enervating luxury and morbid refinement of Rome and her dependencies, infused a healthful element into their dying masses, an element which silently and gradually combining with the body moral, social, civil and politic, produced new orders of mind and traits of character, new customs and new institutions, the admiration of all succeeding ages? We only hope that the nations of Western and Southern Europe, as well as the German people themselves, may not at this time be so much duped by the French cry of "Liberty, Equality and Fraternity," with the consequent overthrow of all that is time-honored, noble and sacred, as to require a Slavonic ingredient for the purpose of restoring soundness to the fabric of society.

See also Anal. Anglo-Sax., Introd. and Notes, passim.

And . . . . underþeodde—"and said: 'Alas! alas! that men of so fair a complexion should be subject unto the swart devil!'—'Wæ-lá-wá,' "wo-lah-wo," "WELL-AWAY!"

Eft . . . . ofcómon—"Gregory then again asked, what was the name of the nation from which they were come." —'Hú wǽre,' lit. "how was, or might be."—'Ofcómon,' "come of," i. e. "derived from."—'Þe,' governed by the 'of' in composition, according to Gram. § 467, Note 3.

Him . . . . wǽron—"It was answered him, that they were called ANGLES."

Þá . . . . gehátene—"Then said he: 'Rightly are they called ANGLES,"—in Latin, 'Angli.'

Forþán-þe . . . habbath—"since they have the beauty of angels." The Latin 'angelus,' an angel, plur. 'angeli,' was pronounced with the g hard, the only sound which that letter had in the language; Glossary to Anal. Anglo-Sax., Introduction, XVII., 1.

And . . . . beón—"and it behooveth such, that they be the companions of angels in the heavens.'"

Gyt-þá . . . . . wǽron—"Gregory still further inquired, what was the name of the province from which the youths had been brought."—'Gyt-þá,' lit. "yet, or still then." 'Þe,' governed by 'of,' as before.

Him . . . . . gehátene—"They told him, that the men of the province were called DEÏRI."

Gregorius . . . . . gehátene—"Gregory answered: 'Well are they called DEÏRI," Forṭhán-ṭhe . . . . generode—"because they have been delivered FROM WRATH,"—'Fram graman,' in Latin, de irâ; hence the play upon the name, but it was probably upon that of the province, Deïra, the Deïfyr of the Ancient Britons; Anal. Anglo-Sax. Introd. § 68.

And . . . . gecygede—"and called unto the mercy of Christ.'"

Gyt-ṭhá . . . . geháten.—"He still farther asked, 'What is the king of that province called?'"

Him . . . . wæ̂re.—"It was answered him, that the king was called ÆLLA."

Hwaet-ṭhá . . . . naman—"Whereupon Gregory played with his words on the name,"—'Hwaet-ṭhá,' lit. "what then," an expression, like most other phrases in the language, reduced from a form originally fuller, and now strictly elliptical. See explanation of such in Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Secs. VII—XI., and elsewhere.

And . . . . Scyppendes—"and said: 'It behooveth that HALLELUIAH be sung in that land to the praise of the Almighty Creator.'"

Gregorius . . . . . setles—"Gregory then went unto the pope of the apostolical see,"

And . . . . asende—"and prayed him that he would send some teachers unto the Angle-race,"

Ṭhe . . . . fultume—"who, with the help of God, might convert them unto Christ;"

And . . . . gefremmanne—"and said that he was ready *him*self to undertake the accomplishment of the work,"—'Tó gefremmanne,' "to effect," "to undertake to do."

Gyf .... gelícode—"if it so pleased the pope."

Ṭhá .... wolde—"Then the pope could not permit that, although he was quite willing;"—'Eall wolde,' "would all," "was all willing."

Forṭhán-ṭhe .... geṭhafian—"since the inhabitants of the Roman city would not consent,"

Ṭhaet .... forlete—"that so accomplished a man, and so distinguished a teacher should leave the place altogether,—'Burh,' "town," "city."

And .... gename—"and undertake so remote an exile-expedition."

Æfter-ṭhisum .... leóde—"After this it happened that a great pestilence fell upon the Roman community,"—'Mán-cwealm,' "a sin-plague," from the superstitious notion, which still obtains, that pestilence is a Divine visitation on account of the wickedness of men. It ought rather to be considered, in every case, as a visitation of nature for disregard of her laws. Some would read, 'man-cwealm,' "a man-plague."

And .... adydde—"and first attacked Pelagius, the pope, and carried him off without delay."

Witodlice .... folces—"Indeed, after the pope's decease, so great a destruction of the people took place,"

Ṭhaet ..... búgigendum—"that houses everywhere throughout the city stood desolate, without occupants."

Ṭhá . . . . wunian—"Nevertheless then, the city of the Romans could not continue without a pope;"—'Swá-ṭheáh,' lit. "so though."

Ac . . . . geceás—"but all the people unanimously chose the blessed Gregory to that dignity,"

Ṭheáh-ṭhe . . . . wǽre—"although he was continually resisting it with all his powers." Tenses when formed by the indefinite participle and the verb of existence, 'wesan,' usually imply continued action. See further Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. VI.

Gregorius . . . . faedera—"Gregory then sent an epistle to the emperor Mauricius, who was his paternal uncle,"—'Ænne,' "one," "a certain one," and perhaps, also, in some cases, as in the present, "a," or "an" emphatic; Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. V., and Gloss. sub voc.—'Cásere,' "Caesar."—'Mauricio,' a Latin Dative.

And . . . . . geṭhafode—"and entreated, and earnestly prayed him, that he would never suffer the people to bring it about,"—'Myclum,' "much," "by much."—'Naefre—ne,' "never at all;" Gram., § 465.

Ṭhaet . . . . wǽre—"that he should be elevated with the glory of that distinction;"

Forṭhán-ṭhe . . . . wurde—"since he feared very much, that he might be betrayed on some occasion, through that great office, into the worldly honor, which he had formerly renounced."

Ac . . . . to-tǽr—"But the Emperor's high prefect, Germanus, intercepted the epistle, and tore it up;"

And . . . . haefde—"and afterwards told the Emperor, that all the people had chosen Gregory as pope."—'Tó,' "for," as before.

Mauricius . . . . ṭhancode—"Then Mauricius, the Emperor, thanked God for that,"—'Ṭhaes,' lit. "of that," and in construction with 'God' and 'ṭhancode' according to Gram. § 453.

And . . . heht—"and gave order to consecrate him."

Hwaet-ṭhá . . . . aetlútode—"Whereupon Gregory took to flight, and lay concealed in a dark cave;"—'Fleámes,' the Gen. governed by 'cépte,' according to Gram. § 448.

Ac . . . . . circan—"but they apprehended him, and dragged him unto St. Peter's Church,"

Ṭhaet . . . . wurde—"in order that he might there be consecrated as pope."

Gregorius . . . . tihte—"Gregory, then, before his consecration, exhorted the Roman people to repentance, on account of the increasing plague, in these words:"—'Hi,' "them," which we have omitted in the translation as superfluous, if it really belongs to the text. It may, however, be emphatic.

Míne . . . . leófostan—"'My Brethren, the most beloved!"

Us . . . . sceoldon—"It behooveth us, that we God's chastisement, which we before should have feared as about to some,"—'On-áer,' strictly, "in the time before;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

Ṭhaet . . . . ondredon—"it behooveth us, I say, that we should at least stand in awe of it as now present and experienced."

Ge-openige .... gecyrrednysse—"May our affliction open unto us an entrance to true conversion;"

And ..... heardnysse—"and may the punishment which we suffer, break our hardness of heart."—'To-brece,' "break in pieces," "break entirely."

Efne .... ofslagen—"Behold now this people is slain with the sword of the heavenly indignation,"

And .... awéste—"and all and single are destroyed with sudden havoc."—'Gehwylce,' and 'ǽnlipige,' both plural forms.—'Slýhtum,' the plural, "with slaughters."

Ne .... fóre-staepth—"The disease doth not precede the death;"—'Ne—ne,' we may say, "not a moment."—'Fóre-staepth,' "steppeth before."

Ac .... fóre-radath—"but ye see that the same death anticipateth the disease."

Se .... maege—"The slain one is seized with death before he is able to turn unto the sorrow of true repentance."—'Ærṭhán-ṭe,' "ere, or before the time that;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

Hogiath .... Déman—"Consider ye, therefore—any one of you who may come before the face of the mighty Judge,"

Se-ṭe .... gefremmode—"who can not bewail the evil which he hath practised."—'Se-ṭe,' "he who."

Gehwylce .... aetbrodene—"One and all the inhabitants of the land are being carried off,"—'Gehwylce,' the plural, as before.

And .... awéste—"and their houses stand desolate."

Faederas .... líc—"Fathers and mothers stand over the corpses of their children,"

And .... fóre-staeppath—"and their heirs step before them unto destruction."

Uton .... móton—"Let us therefore flee unto the sorrow of true repentance while we are able,"—'Ṭhá-hwíle-ṭe,' lit. "the while that;" an adverbial phrase, but susceptible of being construed according to Gram. § 428 with 429. See, also, Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

Ærṭhán-ṭe .... astrecce—"before the sudden slaying lay us prostrate."

Uton .... agylton—"Let us call to mind whatsoever we erring have done amiss,"

And ..... adrugon—"and let us, with weeping, lament that which we have sinfully committed."

Uton .... manath—"Let us go before the face of God with confession, according as the prophet exhorteth us to do."

Uton ..... Gode—"Let us lift up our hearts along with our hands unto God,"

Ṭhaet ..... up-araéran—"which is, that we ought to build up the sincerity of our intercessions with the merit of some good work."

He . . . . clypath—"He will impart confidence in the place of our fear, he who proclaimeth through his prophet:"

'Nelle . . . . libbe'—"'I will not the death of the sinful man; but I will that he turn and live.'"

Ne . . . . . mycelnysse—"Let no man despair of himself on account of the greatness of his sins."

Witodlice . . . . . adylegode—"Verily the old iniquities of the Ninevitish nation, a three days' repentance expiated them;"

And . . . . . ge-árnode—"and the converted robber by his death's saying earned the reward of the eternal life."

Uton . . . . Gode—"Let us turn our hearts unto God."

Hraedlice . . . . . gebiged—"Quickly will the Judge be inclined unto our prayers,"

Gif . . . . . geriht-laehte—"if we from our perversenesses shall be set aright."

Uton . . . . . dómes—"Let us stand with earnest lamentations against the impending sword of so great a judgment."

Sóthlice . . . . geeweme—"Truly is importunity pleasing unto the truthful Judge," Ṭheáh-ṭhe . . . sý—"although it be ungrateful unto men;"

Forṭhán-ṭhe . . . . . ofgán—"because the righteous and the merciful God desires that we solicit his mercy with earnest prayers;"

And..... ge-ýrsian—"and he will not be wroth with us so much as we deserve."—'Swá-myclum-swá,' lit. "by so much as."

Be.... witegan—"Concerning this he hath said through his prophet:"

'Clypa.... gedrefednysse—"'Call upon me in the day of thy tribulation,"

And.... me'—"and I will deliver thee, and thou shalt magnify me,'"

God-sylf..... clypiendum—"God is his own witness, that he will have mercy upon him calling upon him,"—'God-sylf is his gewita,' lit. "God-self is his witness;" Gram. §101.

Se-the..... sceolon—"he who exhorts that we shall call upon him."

Forthý..... æerne-merigen—"Therefore, my Brethren, the most beloved! let us come together on the fourth day of this week at the earliest dawn,"—'On æerne-merigen,' lit. "in the before morning;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

And.... Letanías "and with devout mind and tears, sing sevenfold Litanies," Thaet..... wrecath'—"in order that the mighty Judge may pardon us, when he seeth that we *our*selves take vengeance upon our iniquities.'"

Eornostlice..... gecómon—"Therefore when the great multitude, men both of the priesthood and of the monastic order, and the laïty, came together on the appointed Wednesday for the sevenfold Litanies, according to the injunction of the blessed Gregory,"—'Ge—ge,' "both," "as well as," either with, or without 'aegther.'—'Munuc-hádes,' lit. "of the monk-hood."—'Leáwede folc,' lit. "laïcal folk, or people."

Tó-ṭhán-swythe... cwealm—"to such a degree did the aforesaid plague rage,"—'Tó-ṭhán-swythe,' "to that excess;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

Ṭhaet..... feallende—"that eighty men falling down at that one time,"—'Mann,' the Gen. plur. governed by 'hundeahtatig,' according to Gram. §445.

Of..... sang—"departed from this life while the people sang the Litanies."

Ac..... geswicon—"But the holy priest ceased not to exhort the people that they should not desist from their intercession,"

Oth-ṭhaet.... gestilde—"until the mercy of God might stay the fierce plague."—'Oth-ṭhaet,' "until that."

Hwaet-ṭhá..... gemynte—"whereupon Gregory, after he had undertaken the papacy, called to mind what he had long before determined for the Angle-race,"

And.... gefremmode—"and forthwith set about the accomplishment of that delightful work."

He.... forlǽtan—"He nevertheless could not leave the Roman episcopal see at all;"—'Nátes-hwón,' for 'ná-tó-ṭhaes-hwón;' Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.—'Bisceop-stól,' lit. "bishop-throne, chair, or stool."

Ac... íglande—"but he sent other ambassadors, distinguished servants of God, unto this island,"

And . . . fylste—"and he *him*self by his prayers and exhortations greatly aided,"

Ṭhaet . . . . wurde—"that the preaching of those ambassadors should have free course, and be fruit-bearing unto God."

Ṭhaera . . . . Justus—"The names of the ambassadors are thus called: Augustine, Mellitus, Lawrence, Peter, John, Justus."

Ṭhás . . . . Angel-cynne—"These teachers did the blessed Pope Gregory send along with many other monks unto the Angle-race,"

And . . . . tihte—"and he exhorted them to the expedition in these words:"

'Ne . . . . ymbe-spraece—"'Be ye not deterred either by the fatigue of the tedious journey, or by the talking of evil men;"—'Ymbe-spraece,' lit. "talking about."

Ac . . . . gefremmath—"but with all the steadfastness and ardor of true love, accomplish, through the help of God, the things now begun;"—'Ṭhás,' "these."

And . . . . býth—"and know ye that your meed in the eternal recompense will be so much the greater,"—'Mycle,' "by much," the Old Abl. fem., like 'myclum;' Anal. Anglo-Sax. Part I., Sec. XI.

Swá . . . . swincath—"by so much as ye shall labor the more for the sake of God."

Gehýrsumiath . . . . . gerehton—"In all things humbly obey Augustine, whom we have appointed leader unto you." —'Ṭhone-ṭhe,' "him whom."

Hit.... gefyllath—"It shall profit your souls, whatsoever ye fulfill according to his admonition."

Se ..... gescýlde—"The Almighty God, through his grace, shield you,"

And.... geseón—"and grant unto me that I may see the fruit of your labor in the everlasting retribution;"

Swá .... édleánes—"so that I may be found together with you in the joy of your recompense,"

Ṭheáh-ṭhe.... swincan'—"although I cannot labor with you according as I am willing to labor.'"

Augustínus.... haese—"Augustine with his associates, who have been reckoned forty, then proceeded according to the injunction of Gregory,"—'Ṭhaet,' "that," the neuter singular, idiomatically referring to a masculine noun in the plural, as well as united with a verb in the same number; Gram. §424, and Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Section XI.

Oth-ṭhaet.... íglande—"until they came without accident unto this island."

On.... Cantwara-byrig—"In those days reigned Ethelbert, King, in Canterbury,"—'Cant-wara-byrig,' "the city of the Cantwara," or "the city of the inhabitants of Kent." Ethelbert, fifth sovereign of the Jutish kingdom of Kent, and third Anglo-Saxon "Bretwalda," or Ruler of Britain, had married Bertha, a Frankish princess and a Christian; Anal. Anglo-Sax., Introd. §71.

And .... súth-sæ—"and his kingdom was possessed of extent from the great river Humber unto the sea on the south."—'Astreht,' "stretched."—'Þǽre,' we have inserted in the text, as required by the definite state of the adjective 'myclan.'—'Súth-sæ,' lit. "south-sea."

Augustínus .... bebeád—"Augustine had taken interpreters in the country of the Franks, as Gregory enjoined him,"—'Wealh-stódas,' from 'wealh,' "a foreigner," and 'stód,' related to 'stéde,' "a place," a "stead."—'On Francena ríce,' either "in the country," or "in the kingdom of the Franks."

And .... bódode—"and he, through the mouth of those interpreters, preached the word of God unto the king and his people:"

Hú ..... alýsde—"in what manner the merciful Savior by his own passion, had redeemed this guilty world,"

And .... ge-openode—"and had opened the entrance of the kingdom of the heavens unto believing men."

Þá .... cwǽth—"Then answered the king, Ethelbert, unto Augustine and said,"

Þaet .... cydde—"that he had announced unto him fair words and promises;"

And .... forlǽtan—"and remarked that he could not so quickly leave off the old manner of life, which he observed along with the Angle-race."

Cwǽth .... bódian—"He told him, however, that he might freely preach the heavenly doctrine unto his people,"

And .... wolde—"and that he was willing to minister support both to him and his associates,"

And .... heófod-burh—"and would grant them residence in Canterbury, which was the capital town of all his kingdom."—'Forgeáf,' here in the subjunctive mood.—'Ṭhá wununge,' lit. "the dwelling."—'Heófod-burh,' lit. "head-town, or city."

Ongan .... lif—"Then began Augustine, with his monks to imitate the life of the Apostols,"

Mid ..... ṭheowigende—"serving God with continual prayers, and watchings, and fasts,"

And .... bódigende—"and preaching the word of life unto those to whom they were able;"

Ealle ... forhogigende—"contemning all worldly things as foreign unto them,"

Ṭhá .... underfónde—"receiving those things alone which they needed for their sustenance,"

Be .... lybbende—"living *them*selves according to that which they taught,"

And .... ṭhóligenne—"and for the love of the truth which they preached, were they ready to suffer persecution,"

And .... ṭhorfton—"and to perish by death, if they had need."

Hwaet-ṭhá .... wurdon—"Wherefore a good many believed, and were baptized in the name of God,"—'For-wel manige,' lit. "for well many."—'Gefullode wurdon,' "were baptized." The original meaning of "gefullian," or 'fullian,' is, "to bleach," "whiten," and thence, "to purify," "to baptize."

Wundrigende . . . . láre—"being filled with admiration at the simplicity of their harmless life, and the sweetness of their heavenly doctrine."

Ṭhá . . . . behát—"Then pleased at last the king, Ethelbert, their pure life, and their joyous promise,"—'Æt-nextan,' lit. "at next;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.—'Gelustfúllode,' the Singular, with 'líf' alone for the Nom., and requiring to be repeated for 'behát.'

Ṭhá . . . . gesethede—"which indeed were attested with many signs,"

And . . . . ge-árwurthode—"and he then believing was baptized, and greatly honored the Christians,—'Myclum,' "in many things."

And . . . lufode—"and so loved the inhabitants of the heavenly city."—'Heofonlice ceaster-gewaran,' lit. "heavenly city-inhabitants," or "citizens."

He . . . . . geneádian—"He was unwilling, however, to compel any one to Christianity;"—'Náenne,' lit. "no one;" Gram., § 465.

Forṭhán-ṭhe . . . . haéle—"because he had learned by asking of his salvation from the teachers,"

Ṭhaet . . . . sylf-wylles—"that the service of Christ ought not to be forced, but that it should be of one's own will."—'Sylf-wylles,' lit. "of self-will, or affection."

Ongunnon .... bódunge—"Then began a good many to hasten daily to hear the holy preaching"

And.... gelýfende—"and to leave off their heathenism, and unite themselves unto the church of Christ, believing on him."

Betweox-þisum .... Arela—"Meanwhile Augustine had departed over sea unto the Archbishop Etherius of Arles," Not Ætherius, but Vergilius, who at that time filled the archiepiscopal chair of Arles. Ætherius was Archbishop of Lyons, and the contemporary of Vergilius. The name of the latter ought, therefore, to be read in the Text.—'Betweox-þisum," "between these things;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

And..... gewíssode—"and he (Etherius) consecrated him as archbishop for the Angle-race, as Gregory had previously instructed him."

Augustínus .... Róme—"Augustine then consecrated, returned unto his episcopal see, and despatched ambassadors to Rome,"

And.... underfeng—"and informed the blessed Gregory that the Angle-race had received Christianity,"

And .... befran—"and he also in writings inquired about many things,"

Hú .... folce—"in what manner it was to be conducted by him among the newly-converted people." We have substituted the gerund 'drohtnigenne,' in the place of the participle 'drohtnigende,' the common reading, which is an impossible construction.

Hwaet-ṭhá .... móde—"Whereupon Gregory greatly thanked God with exulting mind," Ṭhaet .... gewilnode—"that it was so come to pass with the Angle-race as he *him*self had anxiously desired;"

And .... lacum—"and in return sent ambassadors unto the faithful king, Ethelbert, with writings and manifold presents;"

And .... befran—"and other writings unto Augustine along with replies to all the things about which he had made inquiry,"—Augustine's Inquiries, and Gregory's Answers, may be found in Bede's Ecclesiastical History, B. I., C. XXXVII. Some of the Answers are tinged with the ascetic, not to say, superstitious notions of the age.—'Ealra ṭhaera ṭhinga,' lit. "of all the things."—'Ṭhe,' governed by the 'be' in composition, according to Gram. § 467, Note 3.

And ..... manode—"and also exhorted him in these words:"

'Bróthor .... geswutelath—"'My Brother, the most beloved! I know that the Almighty manifesteth many wonders through thee unto the nation which he hath chosen,"

Ṭhaes ..... ondrǽdan—"at which thing thou mayest rejoice, and also tremble."

Ṭhú .... gife—"Thou mayest certainly rejoice, that the souls of that nation have been drawn through these external wonders unto the inward grace."

Ondrǽd .... gefremmath—"Fear thee, nevertheless, that thy mind be not lifted up with arrogance by the signs which God performeth through thee,"

And .... withinnan—"and thou from thence fall into vain-glory within,"

Ṭhánon-ṭhe .... bỳst—"from whence thou hast been exalted in dignity without.'"

Gregorius .... bócum—"Gregory also sent unto Augustine sacred presents in mass-robes and in books,"—'On bócum,' "in books." "These were, 1st, a Bible, adorned with some leaves of a purple and rose color, in two volumes, which was extant in the time of James the First: 2nd, The Psalter of St. Augustin, with the Creed, Pater Noster, and several Latin hymns: 3d, Two copies of the Gospels, with the Ten Canons of Eusebius prefixed: 4th, Another Psalter with hymns: 5th, A volume containing legends on the sufferings of the Apostles, with a picture of our Savior in silver, in a posture of blessing: 6th, Another volume on the martyrs, which had on the outside a glory, silver-gilt, set round with crystals and beryls: 7th, An exposition of the Epistles and Gospels, which had on the cover a large beryl surrounded with crystals. Augustin also brought Gregory's Pastoral Care, which Alfred translated."---Sharon Turner, Hist. of the Anglo-Saxons, Vol. I., B. III., C. VI., Note (1.), p. 203. Such was "the Library of the whole English Church, A. D. 601."

And .... sámod—"and along with them relics of the Apostols and Martyrs;"

And .... sceoldon—"and enjoined that his successors should always receive the pall and the archiepiscopal dignity from the apostolic seat of the Roman Church,"—'Ṭhaet pallíum,' "the pall," "The pallium, or pall, consisted of a long stripe of fine woollen cloth, ornamented with crosses, the middle of which was formed into a loose collar resting on the shoulders, while the extremities before and behind hung down nearly to the feet."—'Erce-háde,' lit. "arch-hood."

Augustínus . . . . . Engla-ṭheóde—"Augustine, after this, appointed bishops from his associates in every city within the nation of the Angles;"—Æfter-ṭhisum,' "after these things;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

And . . . daege—"and they (the Angles) have continued increasing in the faith of God unto this very day."—'Daeg-ṭhérlican daege,' lit. "daily day."

Se . . . . . traht-béc—"The blessed Gregory composed many holy treatises,"—'Traht-béc,' lit. "tract-books."

And . . . . gewíssode—"and with much diligence instructed the people of God unto the eternal life,"

And . . . . geworhte—"and performed many miracles during his life,"

And . . . . dagas—"and gloriously ruled the papal chair thirteen years, and six months, and ten days,"—'Papan-setles,' lit. "pope's-chair," the Gen. governed by 'geweold,' according to Gram. § 448.

And . . . . heofona-ríces—"and, afterwards, on this day, departed unto the everlasting seat of the kingdom of the heavens,"

On . . . . Amen—"in which he shall live with God Almighty for ever and ever, Amen!"—'A, bútan ende,' "ever, without end."

BEDE'S

ECCLESIASTICAL

HISTORY OF THE ANGLO-SAXONS.

THIS work, the chief production of BEDE, styled, on account of his "passing virtues and rare learning," the Venerable, was originally written in Latin, and afterwards translated into Anglo-Saxon by King Alfred, by whom it was very highly prized, and, with justice. Bede was born at Jarrow, in A. D. 673, and died on the 26th of May, A. D. 735. His remains, which had been interred in the Monastery of Jarrow, where he passed the greater part of his life, in the exercise of all that is "excellent, and of good report," were afterwards carried off by a priest and deposited in the Cathedral of Durham.

"Nis .... forswigienne—' "The report, then, is not to be passed over by us in silence,"

The .... becóm—"which has come down to us through the saying of old men, concerning the blessed Gregory."

For .... wæ̀re—"For which reason he would be reminded,"

Ṭhaet .... ṭheóde—"that he had exercised so fervent a zeal for the salvation of our nation."

Secgath ..... Brytene—"They say that on a certain day trade-men came thither anew from Britain,"—'Sume daege,' in the Old Abl. and in construction according to Gram. §438. —'Ṭhider,' referring to Rome—'Niwan,' "anew," "newly," "again;" traders from Britain were in the habit of resorting to Rome, as is intimated in the corresponding passage in the 'Natale.'

And .... bróhton—"and brought many articles of merchandize unto the market-place;"

And .... ṭhing—"and also that many came to buy those things."

Ṭhá .... cóm—"Then happened it that among others Gregory also came thither,"

And .... wæ̀ron—"and then saw that youths intended for sale were placed there among other things,"

Hwítes ..... gefeaxode—"who were persons of white body and beauteous countenance, and possessed of noble heads of hair."

Ṭhá ..... beheold—"When he saw and looked upon them,"—'Ṭhá-ṭhá,' "when," elegantly separated by the pronoun 'he.'

Ṭhá .... wæ̀ron—"then inquired he from what country, or from what nation they had been brought."

Saede .... waeron—"They told him that they had been brought from the island of Britain,"

And ... waeron—"and that the inhabitants of that island were persons of such looks."

Eft .... waeron—"Again he inquired whether the people of the same country were Christian,"—'Ṭhá ylcan land-leóda,' lit. "the same land-people."

Ṭhe .... lifdon—"or if they still lived in the errors of heathenism."—'Ṭhá-gyt;' Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

Cwaeth .... waeron—"They observed unto him and said, that they were still heathen;"

And .... cwaeth—"and he then sighed deeply from his inmost heart, and thus observed:"—'Swithe,' "very much," "exceedingly."

'Wá-lá-wá! .... menn—"'Alas! alas! that is sorrowful, that persons of so fair a countenance, and of so light a complexion," Sceolon ... Ealdor!'—"should own and acknowledge the Prince of Darkness!"—'Besittan,' "possess as their lord."—'Ṭhystra,' the plural.

Eft ..... cómon—"Again he inquired what the nation was called of which they were come."

Ṭhá .... waeron—"Then answered they him, that they (the people of the nation), were called Angles."

Cwaeth .... habbath—"He observed, 'Well may that be so, since they have an angelic countenance,"

And . . . . sin'—"and it also behooveth such that they be fellow-heirs of angels in the heavens.'"

Ṭhá-gyt . . . . wǽron—"Still further did he inquire and observe, 'What call ye the province from which these youths were brought hither?'—'Mǽgth,' in the Nom., and governed along with 'hwæt' by 'hátte,' according to Gram. §458.

Ṭhá . . . . wǽron—"Then answered they him and said, that they (the people of the province), were called Deïri."

Cwǽth . . . . Deïri—"He observed, 'Well is that said, Deïri (de ira eruti");

Hí . . . . . gecygde'—"they shall be delivered from the wrath of God, and invited unto the mercy of Christ.'"

Ṭhá-gyt . . . . wǽre—"He still asked what their king was called;"

And . . . . wǽre—"and they answered him and said, that he was called Ella."

And . . . . cwǽth—"And he played with his words upon the name, and observed:"

'Alleluia! . . . . sí'—"'Alleluiah! that is meet, that the praise of God our Creator be sung in those parts.'"

And . . . . setles—"And he then straightway went unto the bishop, to the father of the apostolical chair,"—'Ṭhá-sona;' Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

Forṭhón . . . . geworden—"since he himself had not as yet become bishop,—"

Bæd .... láreowas—"prayed him that he would send at any rate a few teachers unto the Angle-nation in Britain,—'Hwylce-hugu,' "some at least."

Ṭhaet .... mihton—"that through those teachers they (the Angles) might be converted unto Christ;"

And .... gefremmanne—"and said that he *him*self was ready, with the help of God, to undertake the accomplishment of the work,"

Gif .... lýfnys—"if that pleased the apostolical father, and should that, indeed, be his will and his permission."

Ṭhá .... ṭhón-má—"Then would not the pope suffer that, and the inhabitants of the city still less,"—'Ne—ṭhón-má,' lit. "nor the inhabitants of the city the more."—'Ṭhón-má;' Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. XI.

Ṭhaet .... gelaéred—"that so noble a man, and so accomplished, and so learned,"

Swá .... gewite—"should depart so far from them."

Ac .... waés—"But he, immediately after that he had become bishop,"—'Sona-hrathe-ṭhaes-ṭhe,' "immediately after the time that." The whole phrase is adverbial, but 'ṭhaes ṭhe' may be considered in construction according to Gram. §438 with §429.

Ṭhaet .... wilnade—"I say, that he undertook the accomplishment of the work which he had long desired,"

And .... saédon—"and sent hither the teachers, whom we have before mentioned;"

And .... gefultumiende—"and he, St. Gregory, with his exhortations, and with his prayers was ever aiding,"—'Scs,' an abbreviation for the Latin, 'Sanctus.'

Thaet .... Angel-cynne"—"that their doctrine might be fruit-bearing, according to the will of God, and to the profit of the Angle-race."

See also, APPENDIX.

THE ANGLO-SAXON CHRONICLE.

This invaluable record, which has been transmitted to us from the times of our Saxon forefathers, commences with the invasion of Britain by Julius Cesar, with a short preliminary account of the early settlement of the island, and extends to the middle of the 12th century. It is, necessarily therefore, the production of many successive hands, and is likewise written with more or less purity of style, according to the age of the different annalists. Our limited extracts have been taken from the common Text, except such portions as appear "indented," which have been drawn from MSS. that coincide with that Text and with each other in facts themselves, while they differ in the mode of stating them, and on that account are not susceptible of collation. In this, we have followed the example of others in principle, as well as made use of their labors.

A. D. 560.* Hér.... wintra—"At this time Ethelbert acceded to the kingdom of the Cantwara, and held it LIII. years."—'Hér,' strictly, "here."—'Feng—tó,' lit. "took

---

* We have substituted this date in the place of A. D. 565, to make the latter part of the passage coincide with the time of Gregory's succession to the papacy as given in the next extract, the true period, as to."—'Wintra,' "winters," and, as the Anglo-Saxons and other northern nations computed the annual revolutions of time by the return of winter, "years;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Glossary, sub voc.

On . . . . fulluht—"In his days the holy pope Gregory sent us baptism," Ṫhaet . . . . rices—"which was in the two and thirtieth year of his reign."

A. D. 592. Hér . . . . Róme—"At this time Gregory acceded to the popedom in Rome."

A. D. 596. Hér . . . . munecum—"At this time Gregory, Pope, sent Augustine unto Britain with a good many monks," Ṫhá . . . . gódspellian—"for the purpose of announcing the good tidings of the word of God unto the nation of the Angles."—'Ṫhá . . . . . gódspellian,' lit. "who should announce the good tidings of, or preach."

A. D. 597. Hér . . . . Engla-lande—"At this time came Augustine and his associates unto the country of the Angles."

A. D. 601. Hér . . . . Brytene—"At this time Gregory the pope sent a pall unto Augustine, Archbishop, in Britain," well as the date itself, with what Bede says, that Ethelbert died Feb. 24th, A. D. 616, after a reign of fifty-six years. Bede's statement also harmonizes with the date of the Chronicle for this event, as will appear in the sequel. Another error of the Text regards the length of Ethelbert's reign, 'LIII. wintra,' instead of LVI. It will be perceived that the former number of years would not agree with any of the other dates.

---

And .... fultume—"and a good many religious teachers as aid unto him."—'Tó fultume,' "for aid, or support."

A. D. 604. Hér ..... Justum—"At this time Augustine consecrated II. bishops, Mellitus and Justus."—'Mellítum,' and 'Justum,' Latin Accusatives.

Mellítum .... Lunden-wic—"Mellitus he sent to announce baptism unto the East-Saxons; and Ethelbert gave unto Mellitus a bishop's see in the town of London,—'Lunden-wic,' lit. "London-wic, or wich."

And .... Dorwit-ceastre'—"and unto Justus gave he a bishop's see in Rochester, which is XXIV. miles from Canterbury."—'Justo,' a Latin Dat.—'Dorwitceastre,' lit. "Dorwitchester," the Dorobernia of the Romans, now Canterbury.

A. D. 606. Hér .... sende—"At this time died Gregory, about ten years after he had sent us baptism."—'Forthferde,' "went forth, or departed from life."—'Thaes the,' "from the time at which;" Gram. §438 with §429.

A. D. 616. Hér .... cinga—"At this time died Ethelbert, King of the Cantwara, who first of the Anglo-Saxon kings received baptism."

On .... Augustíne,—"In the days of this king (Eádbald), the same Laurentius, Archbishop, who was in Kent after Augustine,"—'Eádbald,' probably for 'Eádbaldes' the Gen. —'Se wás on Cent aefter Augustíne,' i. e. "who succeeded Augustine in Kent."

Forthferde .... Augustíne—"died on the IV. Nones Feb., and he was buried near Augustine."—'IV. Nones Feb,' i. e. the 2d day of Feb.

Se.... biscope—"The holy Augustine, in the vigor of his life, had consecrated him as bishop,"—'Bé his hálan liue,' lit. "in his hale life."

Tó-ṭhí-ṭhaet..... Engla-lande—"in order that the Church of Christ, which as yet was new in the land of the Angles,"—'Tó-ṭhí-ṭhaet,' "to the end that;" Anal. Anglo-Sax., Part I., Sec. IX.

Náne.... arcebiscope,—"might not be without an archbishop for any length of time after his decease."

Ṭhá.... Lunden—"After him then Mellitus, who was before Bishop of London, acceded to the archbishopric."

Ṭhá.. haethene—"Then did the inhabitants of London again become heathen."

INDEX OF STEMS AND FORMS.

INDEX OF STRING AND TUNES

INDEX

OF

STEMS AND FORMS.

A.

A-; pref.
A, aa; adv.
Abbad, abbod, abbud; n.
Abredian, abregdan; v.
Ac; conj.
Acennan, cennan; v.
Acsian, axian, ahsian; v.
Adl, adol; n.
Adreógan, adreóhan, adriógan, adrióhan, gedreógan; v.
Adydan, adyddan; v.
Adilegian, adylegian, adilgean, dilgian, dielgian; v.
Æfer, aefre; adv.
Æfest, ǽfst, ǽfestig, ǽwfest, eáfest; adj.
Æfter, efter; prep.
Æftergenga; n.
Æfter-þisum; adv.
Ægþer, egþer,—Ægþer-ge—ge; conj.
Æht, éht, eáht; n.
Ælfred, Alfred; n.
Ælla; n.
Æl-fremed, ael-fremd, ell-fremed, etc.; adj.
Ælmihtig, aellmihtig, aelmihti, aelmiht, ealmihtig; adj.
Ænlipig, ǽnlypig, ǽnlipug, ánlipig, ánlepig, ánlypi, ǽnlip, ánlep, ǽnlep; pron.
Ær, ǽron,—On-ǽr; adv.

Ærend-raca, aerend-wraca, aerend-wreca; n.
Ærest, ǽrest; adv.
Ærmorgen, ǽrmergen, ármorgen, ǽrne-morgen, ǽrne-mergen; n.
Ærṭham-, or ǽrṭhán-ṭhe; adv.
Æt; prep.
Ætbredan; v.
Ætfóran; prep.
Ætlútian; v.
Æt-nextan; adv.
Æthel, ethel; adj.
Æthelboren, ethelboren; adj., or part.
Æthelborennys; n.
ÆTHELBYRIHT, ÆTHELBRIHT; n.
Æthelice, ethelice; adv.
Afandian, afandigean; v.
Aforhtian; v.
Agan, ǽgan; v.
Agen, ágan; pron.
Agyltan, agiltan; v.
Ahebban, hebban; v.
Ahraeddan, ahreddan, ariddan, beraeddan, hreddan; v.
Alǽdan; v.
Allelúia; n., and interj.
Alýsan, lýsan; v.
An, ǽn, ain; num., and pron.
Ana; adv.
And, aend, ond; conj.
And-, ond-, an-, on-; pref.
Andetnys; n.
Andswarian, answarian, ge-andswarian, onswaerian; v.
Andswaru; n.
Andweard, andward, andwerd, andwyrd, anweard; adj.
Andwlíta, andwlite, andwlit, anwlita; n.
Andwyrdan, andwerdan, ge-andwyrdan; v.
ANGEL, ANGOL, ÆNGEL, ENGEL; n.

Angel-cyn; n.
Angel-þeód, Angol-þeód; n.
Angla-land; n.
Angli; n. Lat.
Anglisc, Ænglisc, Englisc; adj.
Angin, angyn; n.
Anmód, ánmódlic; adj.
Anmódlice; adv.
Anraednys; n.
Ansýn, ansín, ansíen, andsýn, onsýn; n.
Apostol; n.
Apostollic, apostolic; adj.
Araéran, raéran; v.
Arce-, aerce-, erce-; pref. Gr.
Arcebiscop, arcebisceop, aercebiscop; n.
Arela; n.
Arfaest, árfest; adj.
Asendan, sendan; v.
Aspendan, spendan; v.
Astígan, stígan; v.
Astreccan, astrecan, astraecan, streccan; v.
Augustínus; n. Lat.
Awédan, awoedan, wédan; v.
Aweorpan, awyrpan, awurpan, awerpan, weorpan; v.
Awendan, awaendan; v.
Awést; adj.
Awéstan, awaéstan; v.

B.

Be-; pref.
Be, bi, big; prep.
Bealcan, bealcettan, balcettan; v.
Bearn; n.
Bebeódan, gebeódan, beódan, bódian, bódigean, bebódian; v.
Bebod, gebod, bod; n.
Bebyrgean, bebyrigean, bebyrgian, bebyrian, byrian; v.

Becuman; v.
Befeallan; v.
Befón, fón; v.
Beföran; prep.
Befrinan, befrynan, frinan; v.
Behát, gehát, hát; n.
Behealdan; v.
Behófian; v.
Behreówsung; n.
Bén; n.
Beón; v.
Bepaecan, paecan; v.
Beran, baeran; v.
Bereccan, gereccean, areccean, arecan, reccan, reccean, recan; v.
Besittan, besettan; v.
Bestandan; v.
Betwý, betwýh, betwíh, betwúh, betweóh; betweohs, betweox, betwyx, betwux, betwuxt; prep.
Betweox-þisum; adv.
Bewépan, wépan; v.
Bí, híg, bé; prep.
Biddan, abiddan, gebiddan; v.
Bigang, bigeng, bigong, biggeng, bigencg, begang; n.
Bigenga, bigonga, bigengea, begenga, beganga; n.
Bigleofa, bíleofa; n.
Binnan, binnon, innan, innon; prep.
Biscop, bisceop; n.
Biscop-setl; n.
Biscop-stól; n.
Blis, blys; n.
Blissian, geblissian; v.
Bóc, boec?; n.
Bóclic; adj.
Bódian, bódigean, bebódian, gebódian; v.
Bódung; n.

Breost; n.
Bringan, brengan, gebringan; v.
Bróthor, bróther, bróthur; plur. gebróthra, -o, -u; n.
Bryten, Bryton, Breten, Breoten, Broten, Brytten; n.
Búgend, búgigend; n.
Burh, burhg; n.
Burh-ware, -waras, -waran; n.
Butan, buton, butun; prep.
Bycgan, gebicgan, gebigan; v.
Byleh-witnes, bileh-witnes, byle-witnes, bil-witness, bil-wetnes; n.

C.

Cant-waras, Cent-waras; n.
Cantwara-burh; n.
Caser; n.
Ceáp-cniht, cép-cniht, cýp-cniht; n.
Ceáp-man; n.
Ceáp-stow; n.
Ceáp-thing; n.
Ceaster, cester; n.
Ceaster-gewaran; n.
Cepan; v.
Cildhád; n.
Claen; adj.
Clypian, cleopian; v.
Cnapa, cnafa; n.
Crist; n.
Cristen; n., and adj.
Cristena; n.
Cristendóm, Cristenandóm; n.
Cunnan; v.
Cwaethan, cwéthan, acwaethan; v.
Cwealm; n.
Cwide, cwythe, cwyde; n.
Cyn, gecyn; n.

Cyning, cyninge, cyninc, cyng, cynge, cynig, cyneg; n.
Cyric, ciric, circ, circe, cyricea; n.
Cyrran, cirran, cerran, acerran, gecyrran, gecerran; v.
Cythan, gecythan; v.

D.

Dæ̆d-bót; n.
Daeg; n.
Daeg-hwamlic, daeg-hwomlic; adj.
Daeg-th̨érlic; adj.
Dæ̆l; n.
Death; n.
Deïri, Dere; n.
Déma; n.
Deofol, deoful, dioful; n.
Diáconhád; n.
Dimhof; n.
Dóm; n.
-dóm; term.
Dón, gedón; v.
Dorwit-ceaster; n.
Drinc, dryne, dryngc, drenc, draenc; n
Drohtnian, drohtan; v.
Drohtnung; n.
Dwelian, dwolian, gedweligan; v.
Dyrstignys, gedyrstignes, dyrstnes; n.

E.

Eá; n.
Eác, éc; conj.
Eáca, éca; n.
Eadbald; n.
Eádig, eádeg; adj.
Eádmódlice; adv.
Eahtatig; num.
Eald, aeld, yld; adj.

Ealdor, eoldor, aldor ; n.
Eall, eal, all, al, ael ; pron.
Eallunga, eallenga, eallinga, eallnunge ; adv.
Eáland, eálond, igland ; n.
Eard ; n.
Ece, écelic, éccelic ; adj.
Edleán, eádleán, æedleán ; n.
Efen-yrfeward, efen-erfeweard ; n.
Efne, aefne, eofne ! interj.
Efstan, æfstian ; v.
Eft, aeft ; adv.
Ehtnys, éhtnes, eáhtnes ; n.
Ende, aende, ge-ende ; n.
Endung, ge-endung ; n.
Engel, angel, aengel ; n.
Engellic, angellic, aengellic, engelic, engle-líc ; adv.
Eorth-búgend, eorth-búgigend ; n.
Eorth, eorthe ; n.
Eower ; pron.
Ercehád ; n.
Estfull ; adj.
Ethel, æthel, oethel ; n.

F.

Faeder, faedyr ; n.
Faedera ; n.
Faeger, faegr ; adj.
Faereld, farald ; n.
Faerlic, fearlic, fyrlic ; adj.
Faest- ; pref.
-faest ; term.
Faesten, faestn ; n.
Faest-hafod, faest-hafol, faest-hafel ; adj.
Faran, gefaran ; v.
-feald ; term.
Feallan, afeallan, gefeallan ; v.

Feccan, gefeccan; v.
Fela, feala, faela, feola; pron.
Felix; n. Lat.
Feor, feorr, feorran; adv.
Feorh, feorg; n.
Feórth, feowrth; num.
Feowertig, feowrtig; num.
Fifta (se); num.
Fifta-faeder; n.
Fleám; n.
Fleón, flión; v.
Flówan, fleówan; n.
Fón; v.
For; prep.
For-; pref.
Fóre-; pref.
Fóre-hradian, fóre-radian; v.
Fóre-secgan; v.
Forgifan, forgyfan, forgeofan; v.
Forgytel, forgitel; adj.
Forhaefednys, forhaefdnes; n.
Forhogian, forhogan; v.
Forhtung; n.
Forlaetan, forlétan; v.
For-oft; adv.
Forswigian; v.
Forth; adv.
Forthám-the, forthán-the, forthón-the; adv.
Forthý; conj.
Forthfaran; v.
Forthgán, forthgangan; v.
Forthsith; n.
For-wel; adv.
Forwyrd; n.
Fraettewian, fraetwian, fraetwan, gefraettwian; v.
Fram, from; prep.

Franc ; n.
Fregnan, gefraegnan ; v.
Fremian ; v.
Fremman, gefremman ; v.
Freólice, friólice ; adv.
Full-, ful- ; pref.
-full, -ful ; term.
Fulluht, fulwiht ; n.
Fulfremedlice ; adj.
Fultum, fultom ; n.
Furthor, furthor ; adv.
Fylst, gefylst ; n.
Fylstan, gefylstan ; v.
Fyrlen ; adj.
Fyrst, first ; n.

G.

Ge- ; pref.
Ge ; pron.
Geár, gér ; n.
Ge-árian, árian ; v.
Geáro, geáru, geárow, geáruw, geárw, ageáro, ageárw ; adj.
Gebed, gebedd, bead ; n.
Gebigan, anbigan, bigan, bigean ; v.
Gebróthra ; nom. plur. of 'bróthor.'
Gebysnung, bysnung, bisnung ; n.
Geceósan, ceósan ; v.
Gecygan, gecygean, cygan, cigan ; v.
Gecneord-laecan, cneord-laecan ; v.
Gecneordnys, gecnyrdnys, cneordnes ; n.
Gecuman ; v.
Gecweme ; adj.
Gecynd, gecind, cynd ; n.
Gecyrrednys, acyrrednes ; n.
Gedafnian ; v.
Gedeorf, deorf ; n.

Gedíhtan, gedihtnan, díhtan ; v.
Gedrefednys, gedrefednes, gedraefnes, gedrefnys, gedrecednys ; n.
Gedwola, gedweola, gedweolda, gedwyld, gedwild, dwola ; n.
Ge-efenlaecan, efenlaecan ; v.
Ge-endebyrdan, endebyrdan ; v.
Gefaestnian, afaestnian, faestnian ; v.
Gefeaxod, feaxod ; adj., or part.
Gefera, gefara, foera ; n.
Gefullian, gefulwian, fullian, fulwian ; v.
Gefultumian, fultumian ; v.
Gefyllan, fyllan ; v.
Gefyrn ; adv.
Geglengan, geglengean, geglaencan, glengan ; v.
Gegódian, gódian ; v.
Gegrípan, grípan ; v.
Gegyrla, gegyrela, gegerela, gerela, gyrla ; n.
Gehádian, hádian ; v.
Gehálgian, hálgian ; v.
Gehátan, hátan ; v.
Gehwáer, gehwár ; adv.
Gehwylc, gehwilc ; pron.
Gehýrsumian, hýrsumian ; v.
Gelaeccan, gelaeccean, laeccan ; v.
Gelaédan, laédan ; v.
Gelaéred ; adj., or part.
Geláthung, láthung ; n.
Geleáfa ; n.
Geleáfful, leáfful ; adj.
Gelic, lic ; adj.
Gelícian, lícian ; v.
Gelimpan ; v.
Gelustfullian, lustfullian ; v.
Gelýfan ; v.
Gemáhlic, gemáh, gemágn ; adj.
Gemáhnys, gemáhlicnes ; n.

Gemunan, munan ; v.
Gemyndgian, gemyndan, myngian ; v.
Gemynd, gemind ; n.
Geneádian, genýdan, neádian, nýdan ; v.
Generian, nerian ; v.
Genihtsumlice ; adv.
Genóg, genóh, nóh ; adv.
Geóguth, geógoth, geógath, geógeth, iúguth ; n.
Geond, geonda, begeond ; prep.
Geong, giung, gung, ging, geonc : adj.
Geonglic ; adj.
Ge-openian, openian, opnian ; v.
Georn ; adj.
Geornful, geornfullic ; adj.
Geornfullice ; adv.
Geornlice, georne ; adv.
Geornung, gyrnung ; n.
Gereca ; n.
Gereccan, gereccean, gerecan ; v.
Gereord ; n.
Gerihtlaecan, rihtlaecan ; v.
Germanus ; n. Lat.
Gesaeliglice, gesaelilice, gesaellice ; adv.
Gescýldan, scýldan ; v.
Geseón, gesión, seón ; v.
Gesettan, settan ; v.
Gesethan, sethan ; v.
Gesíht, gesíhth, gesýhth, gesíhth, gesíth ; n.
Gesingan, singan ; v.
Gestandan ; v.
Gestillan, stillan ; v.
Gesúndfullice ; adv.
Geswícan, geswícean, geswícnan ; v.
Geswinc, geswing, swinc ; n.
Geswutelian, geswuteligan, swutelian ; v.
Gesyllan, syllan, sellan ; v.

Getél, getæ̀l, geteál, getál ; n.
Getellan ; v.
Getimbrian, getimbrigean, timbrian ; v.
Getýd ; adj.
Geṭhafian ; v.
Geṭhencan, geṭhencean, geṭhengcan, beṭhencan, ṭhencan, ṭhencean ; v.
Geṭheódan, geṭhýddan, ṭheódan ; v.
Geṭhingth, geṭhincth, be-geṭhyncth ; n.
Geṭhungen ; adj., or part.
Ge-uferan ; v.
Ge-unnan, unnan , v.
Geware, gewaran, gewaras ; n.
Gewealdan, wealdan ; v.
Gewendan ; v.
Geweorthan, weorthan, wyrthan ; v.
Gewilnian, wilnian ; v.
Gewilnung ; n.
Gewíslice, wíslice ; adv.
Gewita ; n.
Gewítan ; v.
Gewítnian, wítnian ; v.
Gewrit ; n.
Gewuna, wuna ; n.
Gewyrcan, wyrcan, wyrcean, wircan ; v.
Ge-ýrsian, ýrsian, eórsian ; v.
Gifu, gyfu, geof ; n.
Gild, gyld, geld, gield ; n.
Gim, gym ; n.
God ; n.
Gód ; adj.
Godcund ; adj.
Gódspellian ; v.
God-sylf ; n.-pron.
Gold ; n.
Gordianus . n. Lat.

Gram ; n.
Grecisc ; adj.
Gregorius ; n. Lat.
Gúmenian ; v.
Gyf, gif ; conj.
Gylt ; n.
Gyt, get, geot ; adv.
Gyt-ṭhá ; adv.

H.

Habban ; v.
Hád ; n.
-hád ; term.
Hádian ; v.
Hádung, háding ; n.
Haelend ; n.
Haelu, haelo, hael ; n.
Haes ; n.
Haethen, héthen ; n., or adj.
Haethennys ; n.
Haethenscype ; n.
Hál ; adj.
Hálig ; adj.
Halsian, haelsian, healsian, alsian, alisian ; v.
Hand ; n.
Hátan ; v.
He ; pron.
Heáfod, heófod ; n.
Heáfod-burh ; n.
Heó ; pron.
Heofon, heofun, heofen, hiofen ; n.
Heofonlic ; adj.
Heófung ; n.
Heorte ; n.
Hér ; adv.
Hérgendlice, hérigendlice ; adv.

He-sylf ; pron.
Hí, hý, heó ; pron.
Hider, hyder ; adv.
Hit, hyt ; pron.
Híw, hýew, heáw ; n.
Hládan ; v.
Hlisa, hlysa, hliosa ; n.
Hof ; n.
Hogian ; v.
Hraedlice ; adv.
Hrathe ; adv.
Hreówsung, hreósung ; n.
Hrofes-ceaster ; n.
Hú ; adv.
Hugu ; adv.
Humber ; n.
Hund- ; pref.
Hund-eahtatig ; num.
Hunig, huni ; n.
Huru ; adj.
Hús ; n.
Hwaet ; pron.
Hwaet-ṭhá ; adv.
Hwaether——ṭhe ; conj.
Hwít ; adj.
Hwon ; adv.
Hwylc, hwilc, hwelc ; pron.
Hwylc-hugu ; pron.

I.

Ic ; pron.
Idel, ýdel ; adj.
Igland, vid. eáland ; n.
Incund ; adj.
Infaer ; n.
Intinga ; n.

Inneweard, inneward, inweard ; adj.
Istoria ; n. Lat.
Iú ; adv.
Iustus ; n. Lat.
Ióhannes ; n. Lat.

L.

Lá ! ; interj.
Lac, laec ; n.
-laecan ; term.
Land, lond ; n.
Lange, longe ; adv.
Langsum ; adj.
Lár, laer ; n.
Láreow, láriow ; n.
Laurentíus ; n. Lat.
Leden, Laeden ; n.
Leód ; n.
Leóf ; adj.
Leofian ; v.
Léwed, léwd, laewd, leáwed ; adj.
Leoht, liht ; n.
Letanía ; n.
Líc ; n.
-lic, -lec ; term.
Líchama, líchoma ; n.
Líf, líu ; n.
Lóf, lóu ; n.
Lufian ; v.
Luftýme, luftéme, luftúme ; adj.
Lufu ; n.
Lunden, Lundon, Lundun ; n.
Lunden-ware ; n.
Lunden-wic ; n.
Lybban, libban, alibban ; v.
Lýfnys, leáfnes, léfnes n.

M.

Má ; adv.
Mágo ; n.
Maegen, maegn ; n.
Mǽgth ; n.
Mǽra ; adj.
Mǽrsian, gemǽrsian ; v.
Maesse-reáf, messe-reáf ; n.
Magan ; v.
Mann, monn, man, mon ; n.
Man, mon ; pron.
Mán ; n.
Mán-cwealm ; n.
Mánfullice ; adv.
Manian, manigan, manigean, manian ; v.
Manig, menig, maenig, maeneg, mani, maeni ; pron.
Manigeo, menigeo, maenigeo, maenigu, maenio, menio, meniu, etc. ; n.
Manigfeald ; adj.
Mára (se) ; adj.
Máre ; adv.
Martyr, martir ; n.
Mauricius ; n. Lat.
Méd ; n.
Mellítus ; n. Lat.
Mennisc, menisc, mennesc : adj.
Metan, gemittan ; v.
Méte, mǽte, métt ; n.
Mid, myd, mith ; prep.
Middan-eard, middan-geard ; n.
Middan-eardlic ; adj.
Míl ; n.
Mild-heort ; adj.
Mild-heortnys ; n.
Miltsian, gemiltsian, mildsian, gemildsian ; v.

Miltsung, gemiltsung, mildsung; n.
Mín; pron.
Mód; n.
Modor, modur, moder; n.
Monath, monoth, monuth, month; n.
Morgen, mergen, merigen, merrien; n.
Munuc, munec, monec; n.
Munuchád; n.
Munuclic; adj.
Munuclíf; n.
Muth; n.
Mycel, micel; adj.
Mycelnys; n.
Mycle, micle, micele; adv.
Myclum, micclum, miclum; adv.
Mynegung, mynugung, myngung, minegung, mingung, mynnung; n.
Mynster; n.

N.

Ná; adv.
Naefre, nefer; adv.
Nama; n.
Nán, naen, nén; pron.
Nátes-hwón, ná-tó-ṭhaes-hwón; adv.
Ne; conj.
Nehst, next; adv.
Nemnan; v.
Nig-hworfen; adj., or part.
Niwe; adj.
Niwan; adv.
Nonae; n. Lat.
Nú; adv.
Nyllan, nillan; v.
-nys, -nis, -nes; term.
Niman, nyman, nioman, geniman; v.

O.

Of; prep.
Of-axian; v.
Of-cuman; v.
Ofer; prep.
Ofer-eáca, ofer-éca; n.
Ofer-stigan; v.
Of-gán; v.
Of-settan; v.
Of-sleán; v.
Oft; adv.
On, an, in; prep.
On-, un-; pref.
On-áer; adv.
Ondraedan, ondrédan, andraedan; v.
Ongean, ongen, agen; prep.
Onginnan, ongynnan, beginnan; v.
Onsendan, ansendan; v.
Onsígan; v.
Or-; pref.
Orthian, oethian, óthian; v.
Or-trúwian, ge-ortrúwian; v.
Oth; prep.
Other; num.
Oth-thaet; conj., and adv.
Oththe; conj.

P.

Paellen; adj.
Pallium; n. Lat.
Papa; n. Lat.
Papanhád; n.
Papdóm; n.
Pelagius; n. Lat.
Petrus; n. Lat.
Plegan, plegian, pleogan, pleggan, pleigan; v.

Preosthád ; n.

R.

Raed, red ; n.
Reád, reód, rúd, réd ; adj.
Reáf ; n.
Regollice, reogollice ; adv.
Reliquíae ; n. Lat.
Réthe, hréthe, hréth, ; adj.
Rice ; n.
-rice ; term.
Riht, reht, geriht ; n.
Rihte ; adv.
Rihtlice ; adv.
Rícsian, ríxian ; v.
Róm ; n.
Rómana-burh ; n.
Rómane ; n.
Rómanisc ; adj.

S.

Sacerd ; n.
Sáe ; n.
Sael ; n.
Sámod, sámad, sómod, sómed ; adv.
Sand ; n.
Sárlic, sáerlic ; adj.
Sárnys, sáernys ; n.
Sawl, sawel, sawol, saul ; n.
Sceal, sceol ; v.
Sceátha, scátha, scáth ; n.
Sceawian, sceawigan, sceawigean, besceawian, gesceawian ; v.
Scínan ; v.
Scír, scýr ; n.
Scír-man ; n.
Scortlice, sceortlice ; adv.

Scyldig, scildig; adj.
-scype,-scipe; term.
Scyppend, scippend, sceppend, sceoppend; n.
Se; art., and pron.
Secgan, soecgan, seggan, saegan; v.
Segen, saegen, gesaegen; n.
Sendan; v.
Seó, sió, ṭheó; art., and pron.
Seofon, seofan, seofen, siofan, syfan, syfon, sibun; num.
Seofonfeald; num.
Seofotha, seofetha (se); num.
Setl, gesetl; n.
Siccetung, siccettung, siccitung; n.
Sinfull, synfull; adj.
Singal; adj.
Singallice; adv.
Singan, syngan, gesingan; v.
Sith; n.
Siththan, syththan; adv.
Six, syx, sex, seox; num.
Slaege, slege; n.
Sleán; v.
Slýht; n.
Sona; adv.
Sona-hrathe-ṭhaes-ṭhe; adv.
Sóth; adj.
Sóthfaestnys; n.
Sóthlice; adv.
Sprecan; v.
Standan, gestandan; v.
Steppan; v.
Stithlice, stithelice; adj.
Straet; n.
Strec, strac; adj.
Sum, som; pron.
Sum-thing; n.

Sandrig, syndrig; adj.
Súth; n., or adj.
Swá, swáe, suáe; conj.
Swá-hwaet-swá; pron.
Swá-myclum-swá; adv.
Swá-swá; conj.
Swá-ṭheáh; conj.
Sweart, swart, sweort, swert; adj.
Swegan; v.
Sweltan, asweltan, forsweltan, gesweltan; v.
Swét; adj.
Swétnys; n.
Swilc, swylc, swelc; pron.
Swilce, swylce; conj.
Swincan, beswincan; v.
Swingel; n.
Swithe, swythe; adv.
Sworetan; v.
Swurd, swyrd, sweord, sword; n.
Swutelice, swutolice; adv.
Sylf, seolf, self; pron.
Symle, simle, symble, simble, ael-symble; adv.
Syn, sin; n.

T.

Tácen, tácn; n.
Taecan; v.
Teár, taér, taéher, téher; n.
Teón, teógan, geteóhan; v.
Tíd; n.
Tihtan; v.
Tihting; n.
Tíma; n.
Tó; prep.
To-; pref.
Tó-; pref.

To-brecan ; v.
To-teran ; v.
Tó-ṭhán- swythe ; adv.
Tó-ṭhý-ṭhaet ; conj.
Tóweard, tóward, tówerd ; adj.
Traht ; n.
Traht-bóc ; n.
Trúwa, treówa, getrúwa ; n.
Trymnys, trymenes, getrymnes ; n.
Twégen ; num.
Twá, tuá, tuu ; num.
Tyn, ten ; num.

Ṭh.

Ṭhá ; art., and pron.
Ṭhá ; adv.
Ṭhaer, ṭhár, ṭhér ; adv.
Ṭhaer-rihte ; adv.
Ṭhaertó ; adv.
Ṭhaertó-eácan ; adv.
Ṭhaes ; adv.
Ṭhaeslíce ; adv.
Ṭhaes-ṭhe ; adv.
Ṭhaet, ṭhat ; art., and pron.
Ṭhaet, ṭhat ; conj.
Ṭhaette ; conj.
Ṭhá-gyt ; adv.
Ṭhá-iú ; adv.
Ṭhá-hwíle-ṭhe ; adv.
Ṭhancian, ṭhoncian, geṭhancian ; v.
Ṭhánon ; adv.
Ṭhánon-ṭhe ; adv.
Ṭhá-sona ; adv.
Ṭhá-ṭhá ; adv.
Ṭhe ; art., and pron.
Ṭhe ; adv.

Ṫheáh, ṫhéh; conj.
Ṫheáh-ṫhe; conj.
Ṫhearf, ṫhaerf; n.
Ṫhearfa, ṫhaerfa; adj.
Ṫhearfan, beṫhearfan, geṫhearfan, ṫhorfan; v.
Ṫheaw, ṫheau; n.
Ṫhenian, ṫhenigan; v.
Ṫheód, ṫhiód; n.
Ṫheón, geṫheón; v.
Ṫheow; n.
Ṫheowdóm, ṫheudóm; n.
Ṫheowian; v.
Ṫheós; pron.
Ṫhes; pron.
Ṫhider, ṫhyder; adv.
Ṫhín; pron.
Ṫhing, ṫhincg, ṫhinc; n.
Ṫhis, ṫhys; pron.
Ṫhólian, ṫhóligean, aṫhólian, geṫhólian; v.
Ṫhón-má; adv.
Ṫhónne; adv.
Ṫhreó, ṫhrió; num.
Ṫhridda (se); num.
Ṫhrittigotha (se); num.
Ṫhróte; n.
Ṫhrowian, ṫhrowigean; v.
Ṫhrowung, ṫhrowing; n.
Ṫhrý, ṫhrí; num.
Ṫhú; pron.
Ṫhurh; prep.
Ṫhurhwunian; v.
Ṫhurstig, ṫhursteg; adj.
Ṫhus; conj.
Ṫhwyrnys; n.
Ṫhystru, ṫheostru, ṫhystro, ṫhiestro; n.

U.

Un-; pref.
Under; prep.
Under-fón; v.
Under-gitan, undergytan; v.
Under-ṭheódan, under-ṭhiódan; v.
Unsceáthig, unscaéthig, unscaéththig, unscéthig; adj.
Untrumnys; n.
Unṭhancwurth, unṭhancwyrth; adj.
Up, upp, uppe; adv.
Up-araéran; v.
Uplic; adj.
Ure; pron.
Útan, uton, utun; verbal conj.

V.

Vigilantíus; n. Lat.

W.

Wá! waé; interj.
Wá-lá-wa, waé-lá-wá; interj.
Wác, waac; adj.
Wácol, wácul; adj.
Wácollice; adv.
Wacolre; n.
Waecce, waeccea; n.
Waefels, wefels, waefyls; n.
Waestm, westm; n.
Waestm-baere, waestm-berende; adj.
Wáre; n.
We; pron.
Wealh-stód, weal-stód; n.
Wég, waeg; n.
Wel, wael; adv.
Weorc, worc, wyrc, werc; n.
Weorth-mynt, weorth-mynd, wyrth-mynd, wurth-mynd; n

Weorthan, wurthan, geweorthan, gewurthan; v.
Wer; n.
Wesan; v.
Willa, wylla; n.
Willan, wyllan; v.
Wilnian, willnian, gewilnian; v.
Winter; n.
Wis; adj.
Wísian, wíssian, gewísian, gewíssian; v.
Wita, wiota, wuta; n.
Witan; v.
Wíte; n.
Witiga, witega, witga; n.
Witodlice, witudlice, witedlice, gewitodlice; adv.
Witherian, withrian; v.
Withinnan, withinnon; prep.
With-útan, with-úton; prep.
Wlíte; n.
Wlítig, wlíteg; adj.
Wódnes-daeg; n.
Wóp; n.
Word, wyrd; n.
Woruld, weorold, world; n.
Woruldlic; adj.
Wraec-sith, wrec-sith; n.
Wrecan, gewrecan; v.
Wúce, wíce, úce; n.
Wuldor, wulder; n.
Wuldorfullice; adv.
Wundor, wunder, wundur, wonder; n.
Wundrian, wundrigan; v.
Wunian, awunian; v.
Wunung; n.
Wylm, weolm, welm, waelm; n.
Wynsum, winsum; adj.

Y.

Yfel ; n.
Yfel ; adj.
Ylc ; pron.
Ylding, elding, eldung ; n.
Ymb, ymbe, emb, embe ; prep.
Ymbe-spraec, embe-spraec ; n.
Yrfe-numa ; n.
Yrre, iérre, írre, eórre ; n.
Yte ; adj.

APPENDIX.

undoubted authenticity, and which with one exception, were written subsequently to the completion of the Ecclesiastical History.

"39. The Libellus de Situ Urbis Hierusalem, sive de Locis Sanctis, already mentioned as an abridgment from the older work of Adamnan. We know that this tract was published before the appearance of the Ecclesiastical History, in which it is mentioned, and it is singular that it should be omitted in Bede's list.

"40. In his old age, soon after the completion of the Ecclesiastical History, Bede wrote (in imitation of St. Augustine) a book of Retractationes, in which with characteristic candor he points out and corrects errors admitted into the writings of his earlier years.

"41. The Epistle to Albinus, edited by Mabillon, and written soon after the year 731.

"42. The Epistle to Archbishop Egbert, written at the end of the year 734 or in the beginning of 735. And,

"43, 44. The Compilation from Isidore, and the Anglo-Saxon version of St. John, which occupied Bede's last moments."*

II.

Preceding the observations made, as here given, by Bede relative to St. Gregory's interest in behalf of the Anglican nation from the incident of the youths, we find the following notice of his death and burial by the same pen, with a Saxon translation of his epitaph:—

"Thissum tídum, thaet is, fíf winter and six hund wintra aefter thaére Drihtenlican menniscnysse, se eádiga papa Gregorius, aefterthón-the he thaet setl thaére Rómaniscan Cyrican and thaére Apostolican threottyne geár and six monthas and tyn dagas wulderlice heold and rehte, thá wáes forthfered, and tó thám écan setle thaes heofonlican ríces laeded wáes.

"Heold he and rehte thá cyricean on thára Cásera tídum Mauricii and Focati, and thý aefterran geáre thaes ylcan Focati thaet he forthferde of thissum lífe, and ferde tó thám sóthan lífe the on heofonum is; and his líchoma wáes bebyrged on Sce Pétres Cyricean

---

* Wright's Biographia Britannica Literaria—Anglo-Saxon Period, London, 1842.

beforan thám húsel-portice thý feórthan daege Idus Martium, and he nú-hwónne on thám ylcan bíth on wuldre arísende mid othrum hyrdum thaére hálgan cyricean. And on his byrgenne is awriten thisses gemetes byrgen-leóth:—

"Onfóh, thú Eorthe, líchoman of thínum líchoman genumen, Thaet thú hine eft agyfan maege, thónne hine God líffaesteth.
Se gást up-heofon gesóhte; naénig geweald deathes him scéththeth,
Thám othres lífes se sylfa death ys wég.
Thaes heán biscopes leomu on thysse byrigenne syndon betýnde,
Se symle leofath gehwaéer on unrím-gódum.
Earmra hungor he oferswythde mid méttum,
And heora cýle mid hraégle.
And he mid hálgum monungum saula fram feóndum gescýlde,
And he mid daéde gefylde swá-hwaet-swá he mid worde láerde.
Waés he gerýnelicu word sprecende thaet he lífes bysen waére háligra manna.
Tó Criste he Angle gehwyrfde mid anfaestnysse láreowdómes.
This gewin, and thissum gelíc, theós gýmen, and thus thú, hyrde, dydest,
Thaet thú Drihtne bróhtest micel gestreón háligra saula.
Thissum sigorum thú, Godes biscop, blissian miht,
Forthón thú thínra weorca éce raéde bútan ende nimest."

THE END.

LIBRARY
APR
1982
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

PLEASE DO NOT REMOVE
CARDS OR SLIPS FROM THIS POCKET

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO LIBRARY